INTRODUCTION

I obtained these 54 original Marathi documents from the hereditary Ministers' family at Baroda. Of these 9 throw a sidelight on the transactions of the Hon'ble East India Company's Officers, 18 of them offer glimpses of the Baroda administration, 6 bespeak of the Poona politics in the last stage of the Maratha Empire, 13 of them are connected with the working of the almost nominal sway of the Raja of Satara, and 8 are chronicles of the times recorded by contemporary Hindi historians in the service of the Divān family. The last group contained a few instances of local miracles and supernatural events. I have omitted them. They are also tainted with evident personal eulogies. The remaining 46 present official transactions and are but the records of actual facts specially important.

I have added annotations containing references to the events recorded in these documents. They show contemporary opinions published by other historians of the Marathas.

The reliable nature of the promises and assurances of the British Officers, the questionable practices of Nāna Phadnavis and his colleagues at Poona, the waning influence of the real Raja of Satara, the efforts of British historians in obtaining historical chronicles from the daftars of eminent families through enlightened men like Gangādhara Shāstri, and the real source of Grant Duff's monumental History of the Marathas, are all in evidence in these pages.

It is hoped that these researches in the historical branch of the Council of Post-Graduate Studies of the Calcutta University will prove of some use to future students and historians.

DOCUMENTS

FROM THE HEREDITARY MINISTERS' FAMILY AT BARODA

(After compliments.) In the service of the Chhatrapati, one Prayāg Anant Fanase, was a very intelligent, capable, eloquent, brave and good penman at the head of the Māvāli and Kokani soldiers. He was appointed Subhedār of Fort Satara and Fort Parli (Shake, 1571). After the death of the Mahārāja (King Shivāji), Aurangzeb went (to the Deccan) for invading Bijapur. At that time he went to Satara, and digging mines under the bastion, known as Manglāi Buruj he filled it up with large leather jars (Budhalīñ) with powder and blew it up. It rose high and fell down. Many people were crushed to death under it. The Emperor's battery began to work. A severe battle followed. Many were killed and many others wounded. Subhedār Prayāgji fell down. He was buried under the debris. After night-fall, when the firing ceased, Kārkuns and soldiers went to find out who were wounded and who had died. They discovered one end of the scarf Prayāgji wore. On removing part of the debris, they heard Prayāgji say that he was alive, and suggested that care be taken in removing heavy stones. When the slabs were removed, it was found that he was not (seriously) hurt. He was thereupon taken to the Mahārāja. Rājāram Mahārāja granted land at Chinchner and Degaum. It is still in the possession of the family. He (Prayāgji) had two wives. The elder one gave birth to a son. He was named Joti Prāyag, alias Appāji. He (Appāji) had four sons. The elder was Gangādhar Appāji. He died without issue. The second was Chimnāji Appāji whose elder son was Sitārām and younger Sakhārām. The third was Bhāskar alias (Appāji), whose son was the celebrated Rāvji Appāji. The fourth was Rakhmāji Appāji alias Bābāji Appāji. All these were the sons of the first wife. Their descendants will be mentioned in due course. The second wife (of Prayāgji) gave birth to four sons. The eldest was Bāburav Prayāg. The second Nārāyan Prayāg, the third Malhār Prayāg, and the fourth Mādhavrāv Prayāg. Thus they were four. Such was the extent of his family by the two wives. While Appāji was carrying on the duties of the Subhedārship of Fort Satara, Chimnāji Appāji came to age. Kharsikar and Vāngikar were employed as Shiledārs with their own horses. They were both brave and had taken part in many an expedition. At that time (Shake, 1689; Samvat, 1824) Damāji Gāikwad died at Pattan. Fattesing Rāv had gone to a neighbouring village. He returned as soon as he heard of the demise, and performed obsequies. Govind Rāv (Gāikwād) was in his province. He heard of it. He asked Government (Sarkār) to confer on him the Khillāt (of the post) while the eldest member of the family Sayāji Rāv Gāikwād had prior claim. He was asked how he could expect it. After receiving this reply, he (Sayāji Rāv) paid twenty-one lāks of rupees as nazar and obtained the Khillāt. When Fattesing Rāv heard this, he deputed to Poona Bālāji Yamāji to discuss his claim. He arranged for the proper administration of the province of Gujerat, and went personally to Poona. In the meantime Govindrāv paid the nazar and distributed the māmlats among his own people. He paid rupees twenty lākhs out of the promised sum. The officers he had selected, received their sanads and went to Gujerat. (But) Fattesing had already arranged for the proper administration of that province. The new officers arrived. They were not allowed to take charge. The treasury stored by Damāji in the vestibule was removed by Govindrāv with the help of an army of 10,000 strong. When Fattesing opened negotiations about the appointment, he was told that as it had been already conferred (on another) it was not advisable to re-open the question. After many importunities Fattesing Rāv was told, (with the object of keeping him contented) that one of the two, should carry on military duties, and the other should carry on the civil duties of the post. Such (he was told) should be the procedure introduced. On this, Damāji applied the kunkum (red powder) to the forehead of Gobindrāv's mother. Damājis marriage was postponed owing to some dispute. He married another (meanwhile?). When Damāji's proposal was accepted, he was again married to that woman(?) The firstborn was Fattesing Rāv. Govindrāv was born after him. So each wife had her own son. In this manner, although Govindrāv was younger, as his mother had received the honour of the red powder in the first instance, he claimed seniority, because his mother was the senior wife. He, therefore, got the khillāt. He coveted the province. But he accepted the service, because he was afraid of losing his seniority. Fattesing

Rāv accepted civil duties. Govindrāv made arrangements for the expenses of the army, obtained permission of the Peshva and went to Baroda. It was settled that he should serve with 3,000 strong. Govindrāv gave in writing to that effect. He was present with the Peshva during the Nijagal(?) and Beder expeditions. The officers he had sent to Gujerat could not receive charge from Fattesing Rāv's Thānedārs. There was a battle. In this battle Chimnāji Appāji, Annā Bhāu and Vāngikar were the officers employed under Kharsikar. In the action near Songad, he himself, Chimnāji Appāji and some of Vāngikar's soldiers were killed. After this, Govindrāv complained, through Mahādji Sinde, Māloji Ghorpade and Tāmbekar Nāik, that by granting civil powers to Fattesing he was made to suffer. He, therefore, should have the entire control. He was told in reply by Rāvsāheb Peshva, that there shall be no change in what the Sarkār had done. If he repeated the request, it would not be tolerated, and added,

“If you say that you have suffered loss, you should re-open the subject with my consent. You did not listen to this, extravagantly spent money, and created disturbance. The distribution of work was settled with your mutual consent. You and your brother should co-operate and serve the Sarkār without any friction. Instead of that you bring disputes to the Sarkār. What is this?”

There was then no help. Pātil Bāva (Mahādji Sindia) started for Hindustan (N. India). Govindrāv showed willingness to accompany him, Pātil Bāva said,

“You are in possession of Davadi and Nimbghāv, and if you remain with me I shall grant villages yielding twenty to twenty-five thousand a year, as revenue.” In reply (Govindrāv) said “You have secured for me the Khillāt and the (sardārship) by recommending me to the Sarkār. I accept them.”

“In this speech I have lost all hope of the position. Govind or said, In my accompanying you and accepting your kind offer, I realize the influence of my Fate. It is better to die or to turn an ascetic. One has to do this or that, but you say that I should accept your offer.” Pātīl Bāva replied, “Have I spared myself in speaking about you? I spoke strongly in the prescribed manner. But what can I do, when the Sarkār commands thus? After I know your wishes, I shall (again) speak in accordance with them and in a way acceptable to (the Sarkār).” He (Govindrāv) said, “On your way to Hindustan pray take a turn and go through Gujērat for my sake. And establish my control. If so, I shall accompany you.” Then he (Sindia) replied, “There is no objection to go with you. But Fattesing Rāv is in power; because he is the elder, he has obeyed Sarkār's orders, and you have accepted military service. He, instead of persisting in claiming the position of the elder, accepted the decision and obeyed orders. He is in possession of the whole estate. You are unable to do anything and therefore you say all this. You ought to have thought of this course before. That you did not do. What is the use of speaking now? I did not desist from working for you. And, therefore, I suggested a way to reconciliation. If you do not like it, what is the remedy?” After he said so, Govindrāv replied, “What I did, was under instructions from you. In future also I shall follow your advice. Whatever you do, pray remember that I am your man. That is my prayer.” When he said so, he was told, “You wish me to pass through Gujērat! Very well. The Sarkār should pass such an order. I shall ask the Sarkār and act accordingly.”

Shrimant (The Peshva) gave (Mahādji) permission to go to Hindusthan. When begging leave he asked for permission to go through Gujerat and to pass through the Broach District viā Pāyagad and Malva. "On my way I shall settle my dispute with Fattesing Rāv Gāikvād about the Vaghod District. Govind Rāv Gāikvād says that he would accompany me. I shall consult him on the subject and obey (your) orders." He was thereupon commanded to settle his own mahāl (tract). Vaghod District had been handed over to him (Fattesing) on behalf of the Sarkār. Such was the order. Patil Bāva then asked Govindrāv to accompany him. Govindrāv spoke of what thus happened (to Khando Āvji) and added that he had to prepare himself to go. "Think of this," he (Khando Avji) said, "As you have to go to a very distant place, keep a suitable retinue. It should be in proportion to your reputation. You have already told him (Mahādji) that you will arrange for funds. What is to be done now?" He (Govindrāv) said, "I shall take Pātil Bāva to Gujerat. With his help I wish to establish my power. If I incur debts, I shall repay them. Do I wish to avoid repayment of anybody's dues? You can arrange this. Then why ask me?" After this, Khandoba sent for Rāvji Appāji and spoke to him (about the matter). He said (Govindrāv) wishes to go. He has a powerful ally. It is not nice to advise him (Govindrāv) to ask him (Sindia) to advance the sum. If any financial difficulty arises on the way, the result will depend on what he pays. On reaching Gujerat, we reach our own mahāls (tracts). We can borrow a few rupees, but this is a wretched state and, therefore, I cannot make up my mind to start. Arrange the matter as you conveniently can. I shall settle the payment through you—either here (at Poona) or there (in Gujerat). But this (business) must be accomplished." On this Rāvba (Rāvji Appāji) told some merchants that Govindrāv (Gāikwād) was going with Sindia (Mahādji). "Your business is to supply clothes and accoutrements. See if you can do this" (in this case). When he said so, the dealers immediately supplied it (all). When they asked for payment, they were told, "It would be done, when the usual amount is received from the Sarkār." Khandoba suggested that "After everything is ready, your work would be done through Bālāji." On his saying so, the Nāik promised to advance fifty thousand rupees.

When he (Khandoba) was asked for payment, he replied, "He (Govindrāv) was going with Pātil Bāva through Gujerat, where he would establish his power. The Sarkār has decided that they should pass through Mālva (as well). When they go there, we shall pay you." The Nāik had already heard of the Pātil Bāva's departure (such respectable people would not tell lies). He, therefore, promised to advance the sum, "but," he added, "Rāvba should admit his responsibility. Then I shall pay." Pātil Bāva, therefore, took Rāvba to him (Nāik) and related what Pātil Bāva spoke to the Shrimant. He (Nāik) said, "If you stand security, I shall advance the amount." Rāvba told (him) aside, "I have my say. They are Sardārs, I am poor. What is the value of my credit in between? You turn towards me (as trustworthy). How can I tell you to put obstacles, in their work? You are influential. You are (Nāik) related to Sarkār. I cannot realize that your money will not be paid. After this (explanation) do as you please." Bhide (Nāik) said, "I am not going to catch you (by the throat) Say—'Yes'—in their presence." After they (Rāvji and Bhide) spoke in the presence of both (Pātil Bāva and Govindrāv) and Rāvba stood security. He then took a promissory note, but added that he did not quite rely on the document alone. "I shall have to recover the amount from you. If you agree I shall pay, if not, I shall not." Rāvba thereupon looked at (the face of) Khandoba. He (Khandoba) said, "Why are you afraid? Say—yes! When we have a master like Pātīl Bāva, what is the value of this sum (against that)?" At this time he (Rāvba) said, "Yes,—Pay." The Nāik then caused the amount to be paid. In this manner he (Rāvba) influenced many merchants and dealers, and secured millions of rupees. Rāvba used to go to Govindrāv and speak to him on other subjects, but to monetary transactions Khandoba when alone refused to refer in his conversation. Rāvba never spoke of it himself. After making these arrangements, it was decided, at the time of starting (on the expedition), that a kārkun be engaged on behalf of the creditor. Govindrāv (himself) suggested, "As Rāvba stands security, let him go with me. I shall then repay through him." It met with Bhide's approval. (Govindrāv) said "This (arrangement) will facilitate the settlement of my transactions and save your credit." Rāvba replied, "Have I no elders at home? If I go with you, who is to pay my expenses and to support the family? I have been working here with the Darbār. If I go out and return after a long interval, I shall have to begin life again. What is the advantage? Take a Kārkun. It will be all right." On this, Bābāsāheb (Gāikwād) and the Nāik (money-lender) decided that Rāvba should himself go. They said, "We shall take care of you as suggested in your remark." When both of them pressed the point, Rāvba had no alternative. At this time all creditors who had supplied articles also suggested that, if Rāvba were to go, he would carefully arrange for the repayment. "We feel confident on this," Rāvba replied, "you all wish me to go. It is all very well, but all payments are to be made through Khandoba. If the amounts are not paid, you will accuse me of misappropriation. I do not aspire to such a reputation." They said, "You take interest in our business and, therefore, you will by all means recover the amount. If it is not realized, it would be our misfortune. We shall not blame you." In this manner all the creditors settled the deputation of Rāvba. Govindrāv repeated the offer. Khandoba also said the same thing. Rāvba, therefore prepared to go. Rāvba thereupon took Gopālraṅ Bhide Nāik to Nāna (Fadnavis) who said, "I have had transactions with the Sarkār. Kindly permit Rāvba to go with him for a few days to facilitate repayment." Nāna said, "If he is useful to you, I shall look after his duties here." Rāvba bowed and said, "I spoke to the Nāik in several ways but he insists on my going. I then told him,—I cannot go without Nāna's permission. He has, therefore, brought me here to obtain that permission. When you order me to go I have no alternative. I am going, until this work is done in a few days. All this reflects the lustre of your self. If I am able to retain my fidelity, I shall be able to accomplish this work. Should I keep you informed of it?" He (Nāna) said, "No." Rāvba thus accompanied Govindrāv. He had access to Pātil Bāva and to all others (officers). Everybody liked him.

• At this stage, it was found very difficult to go viā Nāsik and through the Bassein District. When Fattasing learnt that Pātil Bāva was going through Songad and Dharampur with Govindrāv (Gāikwād) he collected all rājas, raises, mevāts, dacoits, Bhils, Kolis, Rānas, Thākurdās, gave them assurances (?), gave them entertainments, dresses, and told them in a respectful manner to defeat the enemy (Govindrāv) so as to prevent their reaching Baroda. "There lies" (he added) "the test of your valour. This will be the recompense for the protection we gave you. If not" (he added firmly) "I will take back from you every lane and alley. Be sure." When he said so people, who were naturally eager to do mischief were rather glad. It was a dangerous thing to travel alone. Horses laden with stores were likely to be lost. Unwary horsemen were likely to lose their ponies. Pedestrians lost their clothes. They were tied to trees. Whenever people halted (for rest) they lost their horses and belongings. Such was the trouble created. Sindia (Mahādji) was obliged to keep in all directions spies, guards, piquets and vanguards even two hours before sunset. He felt that he would not have suffered in this manner if he had not taken Govindrāv with him "God's will be done" (he exclaimed). In this manner he anyhow crossed the Narbada with great difficulty. Under fear of danger to life in going to Baroda, they left Cambay to the left and Petlavad to the right, and went to Pāyagad viā Dākur. During these troubles Rāvba was consulted and he tendered valuable advice. His lucky stars removed all obstacles. There was no one who could stand security for payments required in the army. Hundreds of men and animals had to be fed. Three or four times did Rāvba remind Govindrāv and Khandoba that they said (at Poona) that there would be no want of money as soon as they reached their territory (and added) "Make some arrangement for the repayment of the previous debt." Khandopant replied, "Rāvba, you see all that happens. We are not speaking with you with reserve. What is the remedy to the question you raise? If there were any neglect (on our part) in obtaining funds your remark would have been appropriate." Rāvba replied, "They will ask me when they demand repayment, I have to keep them (creditors) informed. You will also blame me for writing (to them) without your consent. Or they will accuse me of co-operation through corrupt motives. I am helpless as I have to obey both sides. I am therefore obliged to fit up matters in a suitable manner." On this Govindrāv said, "Rāvba, Khandoba told me the purport of your conversation. I see and hear myself (all that is happening). If we go to Gujerat to take possession of the mahāls from him (Fattesing) we are not sure whether we shall reach our destination or (nobody knows) what may happen. If we declare open war with him, he has formed a treaty with the Sarkār. We have no permission to interfere with it (the treaty). If I were to threaten them (local officers), we have diverted our route through his fear. How can therefore we speak to them (the officers). Tell me. We ought not to have left Poona. But you have brought us out by helping the preparation. I shall not forget your obligations. Your brother laid his life for me in the battle of Songad. I know it. I am indebted to you in every way. May Hari (God) bring the day on which I shall be able to repay (these obligations). You alone can help to bring it about. Nobody else can do it. Do not be anxious about the repayment (of the debt). I will get the whole thing done through you. Be assured." He said so. When Sindia came to Pāyagad on his way to Hindustan, somebody told Pātil Bāva "all Kolis, Mewāts, Thākurs and Princes have been commanded by Fattesing to annoy Pātil Bāva. Do not allow him to pass safely. Our own Mewāts and Kolis are therefore no longer ours. They will come in our way. The Gāikwād (Fattesing) is the master of the place. They will not disobey him. They will sacrifice their lives, in doing their duty. Such is the state (here). We should therefore start (from here) after making some arrangement about this state of things." On enquiry, it was found to be too true. Being thus sure that his army will not be able to pass safely through this route, he (Pātil Bāva) sent for the Thākur of Bāria and told him "We have to start (now). Make arrangements on our way and help us to go to Ujjain." He replied, "You are my master. I take up the responsibility of safe conduct through my tract. What can I say about further progress?" His territory extended over 20 to 25 miles. He conducted the army safely. To prevent trouble with the Kolis, he distributed dresses and other presents among them and told them (Sindiā and Gāikwād) to do the same as far as Kushalgad. They agreed. On reaching Dabod, the Thākur of Kushalgad was sent for and offering many assurances he was asked to conduct the army to Ujjain. He (the Thākur) said that the Rāja was living in the fort and that he would go and give him this message. (He added) "After his visit we shall obey your orders and serve you." They then went to Kushalgad. On nearing Ujjain, Rāvba said to Govindrāv and Khandopant, "It is now three or four months since I left (Poona). Pray give me permission to go back. I am going. You settle the payment of the debt in the best way you like. In Poona they will give me no rest. Kindly remember this and then do what you like." Khandopant replied, "You see and know everything here. What am I to add? You propose going back. I will consult the Mahārāja and let you know." The Mahārāja was there. He (turned to him) and asked him (what to do). The Mahārāja (Gāikwād) said "Rāvba! I brought you because I trust you. Pātil Bāva could not help and therefore he was obliged to abandon the original route. Although you know this, you express your desire to go back. But stay for a few days and (let us see) if we can feel our way (out of this difficulty). Otherwise (it seems) our end has approached. After getting out of this affair, that will be the real way which God Shri Hari will find out (for us). Rāvba, you say you are going back. Does it become you (to say so)?" He then passed his hand round Rāvba's neck and added, "My own brother has made me go from door to door. You must have (in previous birth) been heavily indebted to me ( * * * ). I have no confidence in anybody else. You have already accomplished a task which Khandoba could not. You have saved my credit. Khandoba gave me timely information (it is true). Still I am much indebted to you. May God relieve me out of this debt ( * * ) for which I am so much obliged to you. I am conscious of it." At this speech (Rāvba) was obliged to change his mind and to stay with him (Govindrāv). Where Khandoba could not help, Rāvba accomplished his work. All men (in the camp) were inclined to listen to and act up to his advice. They were about to proceed to Gwalior, but the news of the death of Peshva Rāvsāheb Mādhavrāv Ballāl reached the camp. (He expired on San sattas Arbainal, Kārtik.) Ramābāi sāheb went a Sati (burnt herself on his pyre). Everybody was sorry. His senior (elder) was Raghoba Dāda and his heir was Nārāyanrāv Ballāl. He was taken to Satara. He took his khillāt in Shake 1695. He conducted the duties for nine months.

On the day which was the combined 13th and 14th of the first half of Bhūdrapad (Arba) Sumersing Gārdi conspired with Dādāsāheb, accepted the offer of money, and received from him a written order. In the Wāda situated in the Shanwār Peth, while they both (uncle and nephew) were living under the same roof (Sumersing) forced his way into it and killed Nārāyan Rāv sāheb. Subsequently Dādāsāheb invaded the country of the Nizam with the army. This was the information received by Pātīl Bāva.

After this it was settled through Krishna Rāv Ballāl that a jahāgir of twenty lākhs (a year) be accepted from the Mongals, and Nawab Rukam Daula and Nizam-ul-Mulk went to see Dādāsāheb. After some friendly negotiation the jahāgir so accepted was returned. On hearing this Nāna (Fadnis) informed Pātīl Bāva that Nārāyan Rāv Peshwa's wife Gangābāi was in the family way. Dādāsāheb will treacherously do her harm. "I am taking her to Fort Purandar. Because people will say that we brought some outsider (child) and declare it as Nārāyan Rāv's. There should therefore be some witness at the accouchement. She should be an elderly (woman). That is why she is carried there (to Purandar). Come back immediately with your army." Such was the letter. Pātīl Bāva therefore turned back. In the Desh, Shahāji Bhosle of Akalkot had raised a revolt. Dādāsāheb thereat deputed Trimbakrāv māmā. The Nāgpur Bhosle was mixed up (in the revolt). Nāna induced him to be friendly. When the news of the birth of Nārāyan Rāv's son was received, the Mongal, and the Māma, joined together and conspired against Dādāsāheb with the consent of Sakhāram Pant Bāpu, Moroba Dāda, Bābuji Naik, and Krishnarāv Ballāl. When Dādāsāheb learnt this, he directed his steps (to Poona); and attacked Māma and the Mongals. Māma was defeated. Dādāsāheb captured him. The soldiers turned their backs. At this juncture Hari Pant Tātia, showed great rectitude, called all sardārs, gave them assurances, mobilized them again, saw the Nawāb at Shahajira, gave him encouragement, and secured diplomacy.

Mādhavrāv Nārāyan was born on Monday the 7th<sup>1</sup> of the first half of Vaishākh Shake 1696 (Jaya Samvatsar).

People were delighted. They distributed sugar. Rejoicings were held in every house. All sarsthāniks, sardārs, and foreign rulers and their Amirs learnt of it. They were delighted. Dādāsāheb was taken to Purandar. He met Hari Pant Tātia and the Nawāb. When they joined him he crossed the Narbada. To reconcile Dādāsāheb, Sakhārām Bāpu and Nāna followed him up to Verul. Dādāsāheb grew suspicious, and turned towards Gujerat. On his way (his wife) Anandi Bāi gave birth to a son at Dhar. Bājirāv II was born with his face down (towards the earth).<sup>1</sup> He stayed there for a few days and desired to go to Surat through Gujerat. Pātīl Bāva went to Poona according to Nānā's letter. Dādāsāheb was accompanied by an army and some Mānkaris. He sent for Govind Khanderāv Chitnis (of Satara) and asked him whether he had friendly relations with Nānā. Govindrāv Chitnis replied, "The Mahārāja (of Satara) would not destroy what he himself had done." "If that is the case" (said Dādāsāheb) "how am I to induce the Huzur Mānkaris and Sardārs to join me?" He replied, "I and all the servants of the Mahārāja will never disobey his orders. They can be called together only on receiving letters from the Huzur. They will come at the sight of his letters. There is no doubt about that."

At this suggestion, it was settled that such letters should be written. Letters with proper titles recognized by the Mahārāja, were addressed (as if written by his command) and Sadāshiv Rāv Laxman Chitnis was deputed (to Satara) to get them attested. He went to Satara, got the letters, completed (signed) by Shrimant Rājārām Sāheb Mahārāja and handed them, over to the head of the messengers (Jāsuds). They were despatched under the stringent orders of Nāna. They went as far as Dhar, handed the letters over to the Samsthāniks,—officers of the Cavalry and Infantry. Those who got the letters, quietly started with their followers without consulting anybody else. In this manner all the people who were with Dādāsāheb returned (to Poona). With him there remained his personal staff, bodyguards, two or three companies of State Cavalry, two or three thousand soldiers of the infantry and Sakhāram Hari (Gupte) the head of the Kārkins of the “vegetable” Department. Subsequently he rose after the death of Nārāyan Rāv. He was (formerly) the manager of Anandi Bāi. He was the Bakshi (a General in the Army). All left (Dhar). He was a favourite of (Dādāsāheb) because he was doubly connected as an officer (of two Departments). He was a brave man (Talvār Bahāddar). He proved his valour in two or three expeditions. A soldier and a penman combined and a great administrator in addition. Dādāsāheb wished to form an alliance with the British and to be the sole ruler (at Poona). At this juncture, the main army deserted him. He remained alone with four or five thousand soldiers. He (Dādāsāheb) intended going to Cape Comorin at the head of the army he expected from Surat. On the other hand, while Pātīl Bāva was going to Desh, Khando Avji of Tāmbegāv was taken very ill. It was a rapid march. He (Khando) suffered much. When he found that his case was hopeless he said to Govindrāv (Gāikwād), “I pulled on during the last ten or twelve years on the strength of Rāvji’s fidelity. Wherever there was any difficulty, I told him that he alone could get out of it, and did work at the risk of his life. His elder brother Chimnāji Appāji sacrificed his life at the battle of Songad. I have therefore promised to him that I will arrange for hereditary grants to him. He has similarly worked loyally with you, preserving amiable relation with the Darakhāns and with the ladies in your household. They always trusted him. He must be kept above want. He was given two or three important duties. They paid him for his expenses. The usual nazar and Darbār-charges were recovered from him. He is acquainted and is friendly with everybody. Everybody wants Rāvba. He would do no harm to anybody. He was therefore a great favourite. You asked him to undertake all preparations for the expedition. Although you had no cash, he obtained it from Bhide. He also got materials (on credit) from the Boharas, cloth merchants, Gosāvis, and Jingars, all worth lākhs of Rupees. The limit (of repayment) has expired. He accompanied you. What shall I tell him if he asks me (about provision for himself)? When you gave orders, he never uttered a word (in hesitation). It is not possible to get such a man even after a great search. But there was a lucky coincidence like the proverb, "God sent water at the time of sacred ablutions." Thus were preparations for the expedition accomplished. I am dying. Had I lived, it was my intention to go to Gujerat and salute you seated on the masnad. But God does not like it. What to do? Cannot survive. If Rāvba gets into difficulties, do as you like and do not allow any troubles to overtake him. If he remains free (to act) he will save you in a thousand ways, and save himself (too). Nāna (Fadnis), Haripant, Sakhārām Bāpu, Moroba Dāda Pānse, Khāsgivāle, and Rām Shāstri are all friendly with him. I alone know how I induced him to accompany you. You also know it partly. Therefore if you take him as your right hand man, your Sardārship will be thoroughly organised by all means. No other man can do that. Be assured of this." Such is the way in which he spoke to Govindrāv. He then became unconscious. He could not speak. Finding him at the point of death, Govindrāv left his bed-side. He was very sorry. He knew that he had to establish his Sardārship by alternate fasting and food-taking. He was sure of the confidence Rāvba commanded. When he left Poona, the creditors hoped from day to day, to obtain refunds. But they waited in vain. On his reaching destination, they made a row. They surrounded Khandoba. For two or three days they remained round him. There was no payment. They therefore thought of surrounding Govindrāv's tent. Khandoba got an inkling. He placed guards and piquets round the tent, and quietly arranged that no one was allowed to go inside (the tent). Some people rose to enter the tent. They were stopped. Khandoba said, "I am present on the spot. I do not refuse to repay. You will be paid in full. Why do you go to the Chief? If you disrespect him in this manner you will get nothing. If you remain quiet, you will be the gainers." He said so. At this moment Rāvba arrived. When he saw that Khando Āvji was surrounded (by creditors and their agents) he walked towards Govindrāv's tent. There also he saw a crowd. Then.....

To

Rājashri Gangādhār Joti and Sitārām Chimnāji Yabin Joti Anant and Bhāskar Joti and Chimnāji Joti.

From

Mādhavrāv Nārāyan Pradhān (written on) Asiyasar Suma Araba Tisain, maya va allaf, Shake 1716, Samvatsar named Anand.

You came to Poona to Huzur (to me) and prayed that your grandfather Prayāg Anant received from Shrimant late Shāhu Maharaja Chhatrapati, the village of Kalambe of the Wāi District, as an inām (freehold) including all sources of revenue of all legal rites and granted Royal sanads. These sanads were in your house but were burnt. Therefore you got fresh sanads from Shrimant Tārābāi Sāheb and Rājārām Mahārāja Chhatrapati Swāmi. But the District cess, and the five acres of land from Parashurām Pandit Pratinidhi have been granted (as inām) to Antāji Vāsudev. And the Khālsa and Sardesh-mukhi cess are being credited to the state. You are in the enjoyment of merely the mokāsa cess. All the descendants of your great grandfather Prayāgji Anant are not alive this day. To the survivors, (you beg) I should grant the zilla cess and the said land from the Pratinidhi. The annual revenue (of this land) amounts to Rs. 350. He may be granted in exchange land of equal value, and the zilla cess and land revenue may be granted inām to you and fresh orders be issued for your enjoyment thereof. In consideration of this request, and finding that the entire village of Kalambe of Taluka Parali District Wāi has been registered in the inām grants of the state. But that you are in enjoyment of only the mokāsa cess. The inām grant is not continued.

As you have been loyally serving the state for a long time, it is incumbent (on the state) to make sufficient provision for you, it has been decided as a favour, that excluding the khālsa and Sardeshmukhi, and state garden, the District cess (be granted to you). The land belonging to Rājashri Parashurām Pandit Pratinidhi and given in inām to Anāji Vāsudev yields Rs. 350 a year. In exchange of Rs. 350 out of village Sare, Tāluka Haveli District Karād shall be granted to him. The District cess and the land and the one third inām cess are (hereby) granted to you. Including the entire Kulbābs and Kulkānus, present dues, future dues. Moreover you are appointed the rightful Kalurin ināmdār from this year by a new grant from the Sarkār. (You should) therefore consider the District cess and the land as inām unto you and your descendants. Enjoy it as an inām and be happy. Know this. Second Moon of the month of Srāvan. Such is the order.

(May peace prevail)

Order of freehold (ināmpatra) granted to Rājashri Joti Anant Prabhu by Shri Rājārām Chhatrapati Swāmi.

You came to the Huzur at Fort Satara near Shahunagar, and said that the Mahārāja Swāmi granted to your grandfather Prayāg Anant, the village of Kalambe tāluka Parali, prānt Satara, including the Swarāj and Monglāi, rites, the one-third due of the inām, all taxes and all cesses, the present and future revenue, ownership over the water, grass, wood, stones and other minerals, etc. That he was made the hereditary rightful ināmdār and was favoured with the necessary letters. After this your grandfather died and the late Mahārāja granted the same village to your father Antāji Prayāg with hereditary rites. While in the enjoyment of these grants in the said village, you had a house in which all the documents were kept. That house took fire which destroyed all the property, including the said documents. You informed the late Dowager Mother (Tārābāi) of this (mishap.) She kindly granted again fresh documents on 29th Moon or Rajāb Suru San Sālas Khānsāni. That you have been enjoying those privileges. Your father, Antāji Prayāg died and requested that fresh documents be granted and he showed (to the Huzur) the letters granted by the late Queen-Mother. Taking them into consideration and the fact that you are old loyal 'servants' of the state, it is incumbent to support you. The Swāmi (king) was therefore graciously pleased to grant to your grandfather Prayāg Anant the sanad of the said village including Mongul and Swarāj (our Government) dues on either side, including (khālsa) the grant of the one-third cess and local taxes including all customary taxes, balance of dues and future dues, (grant) ownership over the water, the trees, grass, wood, minerals, buried treasures and deposits. Papers (orders) were thus given. While in the enjoyment of the said grant, your grandfather died. After that, the late Mahārāja granted similar papers (sanad) to your father Antāji Prayāg. While still in the enjoyment of the said grant your hereditary wāda (house) was destroyed by fire. In it, all papers and things were reduced to ashes. Among them were the papers (sanads). On that account the Queen-Mother gave you fresh sanads for hereditary enjoyment. You are in enjoyment in accordance therewith. Your father Antāji Prayāg (also) died. Hereby the said village is (again) granted to you (on similar terms repeated) as a hereditary inām. You should therefore enjoy as a hereditary grant the said village of which boundary has been marked.

(After compliments.) From the Company Bahādur we received, in our service an army of 2,000 strong with artillery, therefore their salaries shall be paid from the day of the disbandment of our territorial

Shibandī force. The total amount thus payable is Rs. 7,80,000. On this account the villages of Pargana Nadiyād yielding annually Rs. 50,000 have been given on lease. The balance of Rs. 7,30,000 shall be paid in cash. On that account the balance available after meeting local expenses from Pargana Kadi and Bhāvnagar, shall be paid annually. Rājashri Bābāji Appāji and Ajam Kamāluddin Husain Khān Bahādur stand securities (in this transaction). This agreement shall be fulfilled. Dated 5th Moon Safar Suna Salās Mayātain va allaf. What more to write? May our friendship and mutual good will continue.

To

Shrimant Mahāraj Swāmi Chhatrapati,

From

Rāvji Appāji (after obeisance.)

Dated 11th Moon of Moharam.

I am as glad as if I have the good fortune of seeing Your Majesty's feet at the receipt of Your Majesty's assuring reply to my letter. At present, agreements have been executed in all provinces of Your Majesty establishing annual payment of revenue. The mauje of Kalambe in the district of Parali has been granted to my ancestors by the late Mahārāja. He (my ancestor) was blown up in the bombardment of the fort, after fighting for six months with Emperor Aurangzeb. For that reason the entire village was granted to Prayāgji and we are in the enjoyment thereof (up to date). Recently new taxes were imposed (in the province) but I showed the original documents to Rājashri Pant Pradhān and by the grace of Your Majesty set the matter right. Another village mauje Navani of the Koregāv pargana of the Wāi Prānt has been granted to Rājashri Amritrāv Avji Tāmbekar who is employed under our Sena Khāskhel (Gāikwād). Rājashri Andopant Kārkun writes that the orders for the collection of revenue from both the villages will be issued together. I therefore beg to submit this letter (requesting) that such an order should not be passed. They are both (villages) in my possession. If they (orders) have been already issued they may be countermanded as a favour. Your Majesty (will I hope) not mind the fact that I have not been able to render any services direct. No attention be paid to any contrary information placed before (Your Majesty). I wish to pay my respects to your feet. At that time I will render such services as I can. Do not distrust me. How to describe the miseries suffered during forty years after the demise of the late Mahārāja. For twenty-five years I bore all troubles under the Gāikwād. During the last five years Your Majesty's own calf has to feed itself as a suckling of another man's cow. My father has not yet been able to repay the family debts. I have just commenced building a house because even the milkbush (cactus) beams of my cottage have not yet been replaced. An enquiry will reveal the state of the finances here. The state of my household may also be graciously examined. If I am writing falsehood, I swear by Shri Yavateshwar, my family god, and by Your Majesty's feet. In that locality (owing to the trouble the Rāstes have been giving) Kalambe and Palgate have suffered much. Andopant was asked to send my family people to the Konkan but they are mere cripples. They will be better protected near your Highness' (capital) by employing (additional) guards and cavalry. They should not be sent away from the villages. These are rainy days. I have written so. (I beg) Your Majesty (my father and mother) will sanction the necessary arrangement for the protection (of the villages) and will write to me in reply. Thus I submit this letter to Your Majesty.

Chronicle.

[Compiled by Vahivātdar Sadāshiv Nārāyan Abhang dated 6th of the second half of Mārg Shirsha, 1803 (Dhak era)].

Bhāskar Rāv Vithal says :—

Our ancestor Prayāgji Anant loyally served at Fort Satara in war and peace the late Mahārāja Shrimant

Shāhu Chhatrapati for many years. He faithfully served as Havāldār (commandant) and protected the fort. He had under him all the Gadkaris (guards at the fort). His Majesty graciously granted to him by an hereditary grant of one Kārkun, one orderly and the villages of Degāv, Jaitājar, Nigdi, Angapur Taluka Vadan, Nagawane Shelekvadi, Songav, Dervadital, Junē, Gaundi, Kamadi, Raigav, Kudal, and Bambli—together fifteen villages were granted in sanads as ināms. They are still in the possession of the family. After working at the fort for many years, he was transferred to the Peshvas at Poona. Outside the fort our ancestors and my father, and myself have all along rendered services. We had 500 gadkaris under us until 1860-61. Besides these villages, we received dresses of honour. Even after the establishment of the British Government, we were at the head of 500 gadkaris. I was at the head, and the Maharāja always respected our position in court. Since 1861-62 (A. D.) the Queen-sarkār (direct Rule) discontinued all our active work and granted half the income of the said villages to perpetuity. This grant was made two years ago.

2. During the reign of the late Shāhu Mahārāj Chhatrapati, Emperor Aurangzeb besieged the fort of Satara. At that time our ancestor Prayāgji Anant the chief subhedār of the fort, bravely fought at the head of his faithful army. The enemy was defeated and the Mahārāja gained victory. In this battle Prayāgji Anant was blown up during bombardment. He fell towards the Eastern bastion. Mahārāja sent a search party, found him still alive, brought him back, showed him great favour, and finding him loyal and faithful, granted in perpetual inām the village of Kalambe. Out of the revenue of his village the Sardeshmukhi cess and the khālsa cess and Royal garden were also granted (after the demise of Prayāgji) to my grand-father Joti Anant, and to Gangādhar Joti and Bhāskar Joti and Rakhmāji Joti, and Sitārām Chimnāji by the late Shrimant Rājashri Mādhavrāv Nārāyan Pradhān. We therefore got the entire village. It is in our possession. This inām village was granted about 150 years ago. We possess all the documents of the grant.

3. My grand-uncle Rāvji Appāji and grand-father Bābāji Appāji served the Peshva Sarkār. Because they were the subhedārs of the fort of Satara, they were granted a piece of grass land at mauje Akle tāluka Satara. We are in the enjoyment of the grant.

4. After the village of Kalambe was granted as inān (free-hold), my great grand-uncle Rāvji Appāji and my great grand-father Bābāji Appāji built houses for the rayyets and got some of them married at their cost. They supplied food and clothes to the poorest of them. They were religiously disposed and adored God and Brahmans. All the residents of these villages remained contented and happy. I have continued the same policy and have built large houses at Kalambe. They are as follows :—

(1) A mansion in the centre of the town. Built of polished stone, teak blackwood, has four wings, three stories, a first class building, completed in Shake 1726 at a cost of three lākhs of Rupees. It has no equal (in the district) except in the Palace of Satara.

(2) The temple Shri Bhairav, of polished stone, has a high dome and a terrace. Is surrounded by rest-houses and other temples. In its compound there is a temple devoted to Māruti (Hanumān) equally strong and good-looking.

Finished in Shake 1730 at a cost of about a lākh of rupees (Rs. 1,00,000). I repaired the rest houses in Shake 1797 to 1799 at a cost of Rupees 2,000.

- (3) In the midst of the town an open-air public masonry seat (pār) built of polished stone, in shake 1733, cost Rs. 2,000.
- (4) The temple of Shri Veneshvar on the banks of the Vena river, of polished stone, strong and beautiful. Built in Shake 1755, cost Rs. 30,000.
- (5) A bathing ghāt, of stone and large enough to accommodate 100 people. Cost Rs. 15,000. Has near it two small open-air raised masonry platforms under the adjoining sacred pipal (Ficus religiosa) tree. Cost Rs. 2,000.
- (6) Another separate ghāt to the west of the above. Cost Rs. 5,000.
- (7) A paved street leading to the river. Cost Rs. 2,000. Shake 1734.

5. Our family god Shri Yavateshwar has a large temple situated on a hill to the west of Satara. We feel hereditary devotion to that god and have arranged for his worship, his food offerings and for feeding Brahmans, the perpetual light in the temple and annual festivities held on the 30th Moon of Kārtik and on the 14th Moon of Māgh. The first of these festive occasions has been arranged on a very large scale because our ancestor was in the habit of frequently visiting the hill for paying his respects on this date. Brahmans are fed on that day, kathās (dialogue on religious subjects) are held. The annual grant for these two festivities is Rs. 300. This sacred seat of the god is our property. Government have granted a piece of land at Kalambe, yielding Rs. 30 as annual revenue. The difference is paid by me.

6. During my life, I planted an avenue of mango trees along the public road (leading to the hill). This happened eight years ago. These trees are still being nurtured, they have commenced to give shade. I spent up to date about one thousand rupees on (this avenue) and the expenditure will continue.

7. In the Satara District I have village Kalambe as jahāgir (free-hold). I have maintained there a Manager (vāvivātdār), kārkuns (clerks), peons, menial servants, horses, oxen, cows and buffaloes. In cases of disputes, I am represented in the British courts by my managers.

8. On the third Moon of the second half of the month of Māgh, a fair is held in the temple of Shri Bhairav, god in our village, at our expense and we receive the usual honour.

9. We receive annually our share of the local imports such as 'thatching (karsai), merchandise' (kena), grass, vāt bigar (free labour), sugar cane, til, and raw sugar (tilgul), etc.' At present we get through the British Government a modified share of these dues and grant them a receipt.

10. The chief local (dues, due to a Jahāgirdār) and to the temple are still paid to us, and the right of igniting the holi fire of the village belongs to us. We also receive the first share of the kadakane of the Nararātra holidays and the mudis of mudi-full moon.

11. We meet all the expenses of the annual festivities of Yavateshwar.

12. In our manor, there is a temple dedicated to Ganapati (Ganesh). The annual festive ceremonies due in Bhādrapad there were held by our ancestors Rāvji Appāji Bābāji Appāji and Vithal Rāo Bābāji on a very grand scale at the expense of Rs. 2,000 a year, but now in keeping with the times, they are held on a moderate scale.

13. We have three gardens at Kalambe and three well-built wells, an avenue of mango trees, and flower beds.

This is compiled by Mr. Abhang the Vahivātdār of Kalambe and forwarded to Mr. G. R. Gupte, for Dewān Bhāskar Rāv Vithal's approval.

After compliments,—

You may have learnt all details after the visit of Bāpu Mairāl. Come soon in accordance therewith. Bāpu Mairāl wrote a letter to Gangādhar Shāstri. In it, he said that the Gārdīs should be deputed to confront the Moghias. You need not be anxious about it in the least. Bābāji Sāheb, there is no difference between your life and honour, and my life and honour ( they are, identical).

Be quite sure of this and come with full confidence. It will be well if you live here after the visit, if not, after obtaining the permit from Azam Mahārāja Anandrāv Gāikavād Senākhāskhel Samsher Bahādar, you will be allowed to go with honour. Come to your work. To assure you, a letter from the Governor General has been despatched yesterday and to-day this letter is being written. I and my Government are always ready to support all the people of the late Rāvba Saheb. Among these you are equal to him in rank and are his brother. Therefore entertain no suspicion. You will on careful consideration realize the motive of my hard work.

Babāji Saheb! this private letter is being addressed to you as an assurance. Azam Sitārām Rāvji has already written to you. Write to him in reply that you are coming forthwith because he has written to you, but that you have written to Major Sāheb for a letter from the Shrimant. Then write a letter to me that your nephew has written to you an urgent letter and therefore (I) should send you a Government letter and a letter from the Mahārāja. Write (to me) like this. I shall then send a letter from my Government to the Mahārāja. But do not delay. Come.

Ajam Bābāji Sāheb Jāda Mohabat Hu.

(After compliments.) After I left Baroda I received some letters from the Government of Bombay regarding some communications from the Governor-General about Baroda. In all these papers both the Governments mention your excellent work in faithfully serving the Gāikwād Sarkār and administering his state. On the successful termination of this arrangement, it will ensure the success of the proposal of your Chief, and Government will help you in the accomplishment of your wishes expressed.

Secondly, the Governor has sent a letter to Sitārām Bāpu with Bandhuji, containing reference to your work. I would have written to you about it even if I were there, but as I am not present there I give only a short purport.

Bābāji Sāheb! on hearing that a letter came direct with Bandhuji, there should be no other thought. The letter contains general approval of your work. You should therefore continue your work and bring it to conclusion. The Governor thinks that the duty you have been performing for your Chief so cleverly and laboriously, should be an accomplished fact and that he should write to you a complimentary letter about the successful achievement of the scheme. Be assured therefore that the Government does reserve its opinion and does not express it. Not that they do not know it. Government know for certain, that on the attainment of the success of the Sarkār's scheme, the Gāikwād will love you better. That will happen and the Company's Government afford their protection to you and yours, as regards their happiness. Be informed. Dated 8th September, 1807

To

Ajam Bābāji Sāheb Jamedār Mahatāb Hu,

From

Col. Alexander Walker, Resident.

(After compliments.) I am in haste to go to my country. Therefore before leaving this place I wish to write to you more or less.

You have rendered valuable services to the Gaikwād state. A letter has therefore been sent to Ajam Fattasing Rāo Sāheb. In it the description of your loyal services has not been omitted because (it is desired) that he should always be kind to you. Be assured of this. On my going to Bombay, the Governor in Council will be informed of your loyal services, and that will lead to your prospects for ever.

I remember that your great achievements at Baroda proved less expensive than the amount you received from the State Treasury. That led to the reduction of the state debt.

Therefore Bābāji Sāheb! It is not necessary to describe these matters to you. You know them all. But the reason of recording them here is to draw your attention to the perpetuation of the most important achievements. You are aware of this fact also. It is an arrangement to the advantage of the Gaikwād and Government have the credit. They are therefore sure that the work will be continued under your mature guidance. From Anandrāv Gāikavād Sena Khāskhel Samsher Bahādar.

(After compliments.) Company Ingraj Bahādur placed at the disposal of my State 2,000 soldiers besides artillery. The pay of this force will commence on the day of the disbandment of our sibandi force. It is therefore not possible to pay the expenses of the first year. Therefore the total amount payable is Rs. 7,80,000 (Seven lakhs and eighty thousand) for twelve months. In part payment of this sum, villages yielding Rs. 50,000, a year from Pargane Nadiad have been handed over. The balance of Rs. 7,30,000 (Seven lakhs and thirty thousand Rupees) shall be paid in cash. Deducting the expenses, the savings out of the fort and mahāl of Kadi and the Bhavnagar boundary, and balance out of the year 1857-58 from Kathiawar and from other items, we shall repay these seven lakhs and thirty thousand with interest at the rate of As. 12 per cent. We shall pay. For securities we offer Bahādur Rājeshri Bābāji Appāji and Ajam Kamaluddin Husen Khān Bahādur. MEMO of questions raised by Ajam Fattesing Rāo Gaikavād Suru ashār Mayātain va allaf.

Q. I. The Modikhāna is closed. It should always be kept working.

Reply. Rs. 3,00,000 (three lākhs) have been assigned for the Modikhāna and Rs. 36,000 (thirty-six thousand) for Annachatra (free food). Thus three lākhs and thirty-six thousand Rupees may be expended every year. If this sum is not exceeded it will remain working for ever.

Q. I. The cavalry men are inconvenienced for want of payment.

Reply. There would have been no inconvenience, if the pāga (cavalry) could have been managed in accordance with the provision in the budget. Expenditure has increased and no provision has been made for the outlay. I wish to examine the accounts of the state and to regulate the outlay. Instead of that the expected increase of revenue in some Mahāls, will be absorbed by increased expenditure. It will result in loss to the Sarkār and anxiety to me. I am in this doubt. But if the outlay is regulated in accordance with the budget, some arrangement will be made to meet the extra expenditure incurred at your pleasure.

Q. I. There is trouble in some Mahāls.

Reply. The Pattan and Ahmedabad Mahāls have not kept their promises and created confusion. Bābāji has promised to adjust matters about Ahmedabad. If Pattan-matters be settled likewise, all troubles will soon cease.

“I agree to your proposals.” Hearing these words of acceptance, I am sending this memorandum, which may be followed in practice.

DOCUMENT No. 43.

Vithalrāv Bābāji: Bābāji Sāheb died in Samvat 1867. At that time he, (Vithalrāv,) returned from Amedabad in the month of Kārtik and administered the state conjointly with Gangādhar Shāstri, Vakil of the Company's Government under Fattesing Rāv, who was a Mutālik (Deputy). Then Fattesing Rāv and Gangādhar Shāstri went to Kathiāwār for the Nagar-expedition. After return, Gangādhar Shāstri obtained the Khillāt from the Gāikvād, and went to Poona as a Vakil. He engaged the services of Bābā Marāthe and Yeshvant Dāda Godbole. They, and Vithalrāv Bābāji conjointly carried on the duties of the state. Then Yeshvantrāv Dāda was dismissed, and Gangādhar Shāstri died. Then with the consent of the Resident Colonel Sāheb, Vithalrāv Bābāji carried on the duties. The Company Government decided that there should be another officer, and the Colonel Sāheb brought Dhākji Dādāji from Bombay and employed him. Dhākji Dādāji took Umiāshankar under him and worked with Vithalrāv Bābāji under Fattesingrāv Bābāsāheb in his palace. Then Fattesingrāv Bābāsāheb died and Anandrāv Mahārāja appointed Sayājirāv as his Mutālik (Deputy). At that time Vithalrāv Bābāji and Dhākji Dādāji attended office in the place of Sayājirāv Mahārāj. Then after the demise of Anandrāv Gāikvād, Sayājirāv Mahārāj became the Gāikavād. At that time these two officers were the ministers. Then Elphinstone Sāheb came to Baroda, and adjusted the administration of the state and appointed Vithalrāv Bābāji and Sayājirāv as his chief helpers. After this, the officers of the Company were all dismissed. Sayāji Mahārāja, however, retained the services of Vithalrāv Devāji for his Khāsi Department.

After he began his work, some defalcations were discovered against Umiāshankar. He was dismissed. Dhākji Dādāji was also dismissed. Then Vithalrāv Bābāji and Vithalrāv Devāji worked together (as ministers). But the Sarkār relied on Vithalrāv Devāji. However, Vithalrāv Devāji commanded the respect of the Sarkār and continued to work.

Then on account of the diplomacy of the '7th year,' Sarkār lost confidence in Vithalrāv Devāji and he was dismissed, and Venirām Aditrām was deputed from Bombay to Calcutta. At this time, Vithalrāv Bābāji and Bhāu Purānik were carrying on the duties (of the minister). Then Vithalrāv Bābāji was taken ill and lost consciousness, and Krishnarāv Bhagwant was asked to work in the Khāsgī Department. Krishnarāv and Bhāu Purānik worked together. Then Vithalrāv Devāji mortgaged seven Mahāls of the state to pay off its debt. At this time Vithalrāv Bābāji died, and Bhāskarrāv Vithal was adopted. Vithalrāv Devāji went to Dabhai and thence to Kadi to administer the seven Mahāls. The administration of the state was entrusted to Bhāu Purānik and Krishnarāv Bhagwant on behalf of Bhāskarrāv Vithal. Bhāskarrāv was at that time 12 years of age, and therefore these two officers were appointed by the Sarkār and Gopāl Pant was working in the Khāsgī Department on behalf of Venirām. But while in state-affairs Krishnarāv Bhagwant and Bhāu Purānik were working, the Sarkār appointed Gopāl Pant as Sikenevis. The seven Mahāls were at this time released. He began working with the attachments of properties in connection therewith. Our agents Krishnarāv Bhagwant and Gopāl Pant fell out, and Krishnarāv was dismissed. Then Venirām Aditrām returned to Bombay from Calcutta. When he came to Baroda from there, Gopāl Pant was dismissed and Venirām Aditrām assumed the title of Himmat Bahādur, and worked (as Minister). He asked Bhāskarrāv to pay him one per cent. as Vakil's Dasturi. Bhāskarrāv refused. Venirām therefore became his enemy and stopped him from attending even the Darbār. Since then there is no one to work on behalf of Bhāskarrāv and he does not attend. After some years he began attending the Darbār. (This is already known.)

From

Gangādhar Shāstri Patvardhan.

(After blessings.) I am quite well at Baroda up to the 9th Moon of Rajjab. I saw the letters you sent to Rajeshri Bāpu on the 4th Moon, and learnt their contents. You wrote to Bāpu in a despondent tone and prevented him from going to Kadi and asked him to live in Bombay after rendering accounts. I learn all this. Bābāsāheb! when you come to Dakore I and the Colonel Sāheb will both see you. You and he will learn all details. Had I taken this step I should have been guilty of ruining your family. I cannot give details here. Bāpu will explain (details). I also will explain. Then you will realize the whole affair. As you have placed your head on my thigh, come at once. If on your arrival any changes be affected in the former arrangements, no one will blame (you). But that will be the climax of confidence, and you will realize that in this mortal world people are born of one set of parents only. I have asked Bāpu to go ahead to bring you. Do not be angry with him. Let me know the day of your arrival at Dākore. The Colonel Sāheb is coming and arrangement must be made for his guards, baggage, etc. I am also very sorry to see that letter, so was the Colonel Sāheb. You will know all from the letter addressed to you. That letter has been forwarded to the officer of our Government who lives at Kadi. It has been sent through that place to ensure confidential despatch.

Bābāsāheb! if in accordance with the writing (I) have to go to Bombay, Benares is also in the possession of the Company, and it is nearer. As you are the senior and have the authority of a guru (teacher) and as I and Bāpu are your pupils, we shall live by begging. We swear that we have no other wish. Be assured. Let Bāpu have audience as soon as possible. That will remove all misunderstanding from your mind.

Bhādrapad. suddh 11th Tuesday, at 2 ghatikās. May you be informed. This letter has been included in the English letters and has therefore not been sealed. The seal will increase the size of the envelope. Compliments.

1. Rāvji Appāji came from Poona in Samvat 1850. He worked (as minister) for 9 years.
1. Sitāram Rāvji and Sakhārām Chimnāji worked (as Kārbhāri) up to 1862 for about 3 years.
1. Bābāji Appāji worked (as minister) from Samvat 1863 to the month of Kārtik Samvat 1867.
1. Vithalrāv Bābāji and Gangādhar Shāstri (as long as he was at Baroda) worked amicably together. When Gangādhar Shāstri went to Poona in Samvat 1870, the duties were carried on in consultation with Bābā Marāthe and Yashvantrāv Dāda Godbole. After Gangādhar Shāstri's death, Yashvantrāv Godbole was under the displeasure of the Sarkār and he was dismissed. Bābā Marāthe was working. Then Ajam Colonel Sāheb Bahādur brought Dhākji Dādāji from Bombay. Vithalrāv Bābāji was working through him. After the demise of Anandrāv Mahārāja, Mahārāja Sayājirāv succeeded him to the gādi, then Vithalrāv Bābāji and Dhākji Dādāji were working together. Umia Shankar was under them. Dhākji Dādāji went to Bombay, and Umia Shankar was dismissed. It was then decided that Vithalrāv Dewāji be brought from Kathiawar. He (Vithalrāv Bābāji) worked until then.
1. Vithal Dewāji the Karkun of the Khāsgivale's family was employed to do the work (of the minister). He worked in co-operation with Vithalrāv Bābāji until Samvat 1883. He (Vithalrāv Dewāji) then went to Kabani Mahāl.
1. In Samvat 1884 Vithalrāv Bābāji was taken ill, and therefore while Krishnarāv Bhagwant and Bhāu Purānik were conjointly carrying on his duties Vithalrāv Bābaji died. Bhaskarrāv Vithal was a minor, and therefore Krishnarāv Bhagwant carried on the duties until Samvat 1885.

1. In Samvat 1886, Venirām Aditrām kept Gopāl Pānt at Baroda and went to Bombay. Gopālraāv carried on the duties until the end of Samvat 1888.
  1. In 1889, Venirām Aditrām returned from Bombay, removed Gopāl Pant, and worked until 1893. He was hostile to the Bahādarivāllās (guarantee holders). He ran away to Calcutta. At this time Ganesh Pant Bhāu Oze, a subordinate of the Phadnis family, worked (as minister) until the death of Sayāji Rāv Mahārāja and thereafter Raghunāthraāv Dhāyabar, Govindrāv Pandurāng Rode and Ganesh Bhāu Oze carried on the duties, until the end of Samvat 1905.
  1. Since the Ashādh of Samvat 1906, Govindrāv Pandurāng Rode, Raghunāthraāv Dhāyabar, and Vithal Khanderāv Tāmbekar were carrying on the duties (of the minister). In Samvat 1907, the others did the same without consulting Raghunāthraāv Dhāyabar. When Govindrāv Rode returned from Bombay he resigned (or was dismissed) and Vithal Khanderāv Tāmbekar carried on the duties.

Chronicle.

SUMMARY of historical notes on the conquest of Gujerat by Sena Khāshkel Samsher Bahādur the Gāikavād of Baroda collected by Raghunāth Laxman Chitnis at the request of Gangādhar Shastri who wanted them for submission to the Peshva Sarkār and to the Company Sarkār.

Pilājirāv Gāikavād was the Patel of Bhor. He was pressed hard for some debt due to the Sarkār. He migrated to the banks of the Godāvāri and Bhima. One night, he reached the house of his sister. A Subha of the Bijapur state reached the same village the next day on his way from Delhi. His army was marching at midday, and rested under the trees. Among the retinue there were horses, caparisoned with gold and silver ornaments, and covered with gold embroidered cloths. Some were sleeping and some went to buy stimulants, tobaccos, pipes, etc. Pilāji selected a fine horse. Its syce was snoring. The others left the place. When Pilāji saw that the syce near whom he was sitting was fast asleep, he mounted the horse and started with the army. When he reached an adjoining river, he halted with the excuse of allowing the horse to drink water and then began to go away in a different direction. Some one saw, and threatened him. Pilāji gave a blow and the man fell wounded from his horse. He continued his career through the mountainous country. On the third or fourth day he reached Visarvāda where the Bānde Sardār had a large stable for stallions. One of Pilāji's relations was employed there as the keeper of the grains. He fed the horse, got it groomed, and found accommodation for it. Pilāji related his short adventure to the grain keeper. Both of them decided to go to Sangad the following day. Sardār Bānde was there with his army. Finding Pilāji an active and clever man, he was employed (with his new horse) at Rs. 2 per day. He quickly rose by good hard work carrying messages, settling disputes, and arresting runaways.

Pilājirāv's eldest son was Sayājirāv, second Anandrāv and the third Malhārrāv. He had four more sons besides 16 born of remarriages. He added five to twenty-five horses of his own and engaged a hundred or two belonging to Shiledārs. Deciding the boundary cases in Maval, arranging mutual settlements in local disputes, and collecting a few rupees from every "customer," was his good luck. Those who attacked him were defeated in pitched battles. Their heads were severed. He therefore achieved success in all directions. He wished to invade Surat. He went to Surat. He looted the town, captured the sāwkārs. In negotiating their release the Sarkār accepted Pilāji's guarantee for lākhs of rupees and people willingly trusted him.

When the Peshva came (to that place?) the Dābhāde proposed that he should not be allowed to do so. He advanced to Dabhai and fought a battle with Dādāsāheb (Raghunāthrāv Peshva). Dābhāde was killed on the battle-field. Pilāji would not yield. Dādāsāheb therefore bestowed the title Samsher Bahādur on him, and formed an alliance with him. He then went to Gujerat and from thence returned home (to Poona).

The demands issued from Satara on the Senāpati remained overdue in spite of repeated expeditors. As it was rumoured that the Sarkār intended effecting changes in the office of the Subha, the Senāpati sent all the (Sarkār) messengers to Bānde. Bānde therefore besieged Surat with great determination, to gain either the takht or to die. Pilāji Bāba carried it successfully and Bānde expended the proceeds partly in repaying the debt and partly on personal matters. The real balance due from the Mahāl, was transferred to the men who came (from Satara) with the demands. Two or three lākhs of Rupees were thus paid up. There was further no balance in hand, he (Bānde) promised payment but no cash was forthcoming. The varātvālās (agents of Satara) began giving trouble. It was therefore decided that Pilājirāv be deputed with hundis worth ten lākhs on the Sardār of Talegāv and the Sarkār be requested to write off the balance. At this juncture Pilāji died of high fever. The Varātvālās remained quiet considering the calamity. Damāji Gāikvād was already in service. He had carried on expeditions and successfully achieved some negotiations. Seeing that he was a wise man and a man of action, Bānde conferred the (vacant) post on him and sent him to Dābhāde (the Senāpati). He explained matters, but that made no impression on Dābhāde. As the debt amounted to two crores and the cash offered after a long interval did not exceed 10 to 15 lākhs, he would not accept the terms. Then Damāji replied, "Agents have to carry out the orders of their masters. I therefore beg you will accept this compromise. If not, the men remain dunning for payment already with my master (Bānde). He will pay in proportion to his income. If this be not acceptable let the Sarkār please itself." He repeated the same answer for a month or two. There was no alternative. When Dābhāde saw this, he advised him (Damāji) to go to Satara and speak to the Sarkār (the Mahārāja) and to settle the matter direct. He earnestly begged the favour of not being handed over to the Sarkār. "The Balance against us does not amount to 2 crores. It may come up to 60 or 70 lākhs of Rupees. Our objections may be considered, and a settlement arrived at. That is a better course. It does not seem (to me) to be the correct way to settle the matter—if I were to pay all demands put forward." After scrutiny, a memo. was drawn, showing about 1 crore of Rupees as the actual balance due. Damāji replied that having no territory in his charge he was helpless at seeing such a balance shown. Fifty to sixty lākhs seemed to be the real balance due. Even out of that sum deductions would have to be made for insolvent debtors and for the reduced revenue of the Mahāl. Then the balance could be recovered by instalments. On this, he was again told to go to Satara. He said he was willing to repay as proposed by him, and asked for a letter of introduction, adding that he would there repeat his request (for compromise). He was then despatched with the dunnings (tagāde) and hujrās (personal staff). Damāji (with the connivance of the hūjrās) saw the agents of Dābhāde at Satara. He explained the position to them. The Sarkār replied that when the amount due from Dābhāde exceeds  $2\frac{1}{2}$  or 3 crores how could His Majesty consent to (such a) settlement? The Sarkār was requested to do justice. "We shall not demur." The Sarkār imposed a fine on Damāji. Damāji took the help of Yamāji Pant and (through him) saw Shripatrāv Pratinidhi. He explained matters to him (Shripatrāv). He showed that including all items such as Mahāl-proceeds and expeditions the total amounted only to 85 lākhs of Rupees. It was not fair to throw the whole burden on Bānde.

At last all the Kārbhāris decided in consultation, that if Dābhāde accepted a lower sum he would not brook alteration of the figure. They therefore proposed a general settlement. Mahārāja was ill at that time. Noticing the scarcity of cash, he (Mahārāja) said that they could accept the terms they thought reasonable. The whole responsibility was therefore thrown on Damāji's head. Damāji replied that he was a mere agent (vakil). "His Highness' dunners have seen what amount can be paid on behalf of Bānde. If approved of, the matter may be settled as they (the Kārbhāris) decided. I shall submit my request, beyond that I have no power." Then Yamāji Pant said "The debt amounts to  $2\frac{1}{2}$  or 3 crores and you say that there was no realizations. If each item were to be checked, it would involve loss of time. The Sarkār has waited for five or six years. I therefore agree to write off fifty lākhs of rupees. If there were no realizations how are you going to pay off Rupees two and half crores?" Damāji (Gāikavād) replied, "Dābhāde is the master. You are taking no steps to recover the amount from him and throw the whole burden on my head. I am but a servant of Bānde. I am not responsible for the whole affair." On their deciding what amount is due from him direct, Rupees one crore were deducted on his (Dābhāde's) behalf. He was asked to pay off  $1\frac{1}{2}$  crores the balance then left. Damāji replied that the "real balance against him would be sixty lāks of rupees. Say what you will write off, out of that sum, and accept the balance. I lay this request before the Senāpati as well as the Sarkār." It was then settled with the approval of the Pant, that Damāji should be appointed to the Subha and be made Sena Khāskhel. Damāji should be held responsible for the debt. All the Kārbhāris agreed to this proposal and the order was passed. Damāji accepted the terms and tendered sureties for Rupees forty lāks. The balance was to be paid by instalments. Damāji received the dress (of appointment) and went to Gujerat. Yamāji Pant's and Damāji Bāba's proposals succeeded. The Mahārāja then died. Rājāram Sāheb was adopted. There was trouble among the Kārbhāris. The Peshva and Govindrāv Chitnis formed one party and the Āi Sāheb (Queen Dowager) and Yamāji formed the other. But the Peshva had an army under his command. It was decided that the Queen mother and Yamāji should carry on the administration and punish the Peshva. As an army was necessary, Damāji was asked to come with his army. There was a battle between him and Nāna Peshva. The names of the principals were suppressed. The Peshva asked Visāji Pant the Subha of Bassein to take possession of the Gāikavād's territory. He took the fort of Pānel. When Bālāji Basvant's brother heard of this, he collected all his sardārs and held a consultation and decided that if he were to neglect, the Peshva would take his territory. He would not then be able to defend himself. He therefore decided that the Peshva's army should be punished. He then organized the defence of Songad and Navasari; gave battle to the Subha of Bassein and defeated him. Basavant looted the equipage. The Subhedār ran away to save his life. On the other hand Nāna Peshva treacherously arrested Damāji in spite of his own promise. He arrested Rāmchandra Yasvant the Kārbhāri, and sent him to Lohagad. Fattesing and Govindrāv Gāikavād were both taken prisoners. They were handed over to Chitnis on his standing security. Damāji was a prisoner for three years. Rāmchandra Basvant promised that he would escape, collect an army, and relieve Damāji, but he ran away to meet Bālāji.

Both the brothers combined, collected an army, and conjointly carried on an expedition. They captured the Mahāl officers of the Peshvās, Sindes, and Holkers, imprisoned them, and collected ransoms. The news reached the Peshvās and Damāji's brother came down to Malva. Basvant created trouble in Bāglān, Malhār Rāv did the same in Gujerat. There was trouble on all sides. The Peshvās became restless. Such was the time. (The Peshvās) therefore brought about alliance with Damāji. He was promised half of the territory he might conquer. He was asked to attend himself on the Peshvās at Poona with 5,000 strong. Even if he were to bring more men he was promised expenses. He was made Sera Khāskhel Samsher Bahādur and the Subha of Gujerat. He gained success, conquered the Mevāsis and established order. He gave a document announcing the release of Dabhai but Kedārji Gāikavād did not accept it. Therefore Bālāji Rāmchandra Basvant went there and took the fort and distributed the commands of the Thanas. They worked together in this way. Dābhāde's connection had already been severed, and an alliance formed between the Peshvās and the Gāikavād.

Damāji became covetous and began studying alchemy. Damāji therefore lived in an obscure village. He was afraid that (his enemies) would take away his wealth and his family would have to beg. One Moslem Fakir used to make gold. Damāji heard of it, and called the man to him. He was fed and offered a small room for his alchemic experiments. They manufactured gold on three or four occasions and got 5 to 10 tolās of it on each occasion. Seeing that, Damāji got a big furnace and bought mercury, arsenic, etc., and personally worked the bellows. As soon as smoke rose out of the furnace, the fakir left under the pretext of going to W. C. Damāji closed the door from inside and was suffocated to death. On the next morning people looked and saw that he had breathed his last. His younger son performed his obsequies. Fattesing arrived subsequently. Govindrāv was away in his native place. Sayājirāv was at Baroda. Things happened in this way. Govindrāv wanted to secure the seniority. He saw the Srimant, borrowed money from Tāmbekar and Vānavale, collected an army, appointed Tāmbekar his Kārbhāri, took Khando Āvaji with him, and came to Gujerat. Murārāv Gāikavād and Kanhoji Gāikavād remained at Baroda with Sayāji Gāikavād.

Fattesing did not allow Govindrāv to establish himself. There was a battle. Sinde (Pātelbāva) passed through Kolvan, but they could not do so through the Gāikavād territory. Sinde was thus put under fear. Khando Āvaji went to Gwalior, to Gokul, to Vrindavan and then went to his native land. As there was no opportunity to speak to Sinde, Govindrāv went to Poona and stayed there. Nāna Phadnis held out false hopes, accepted bribe from Fattesing, and created trouble. Khando Āvaji died. Govindrāv found Rāvji Appāji a very honest man, borrowed money through him from the Gosain money-lenders and conducted the duties of the Sardārship. After Fattesing's death, Mānāji arrested Yādav Bhāskar and carried on the duties himself but he suffered from syphilis and died within ten months.

Then Nāro Shripāt and Govind Vishvanāth went to negotiate debt in their own names. They met Rāvji Appāji. He promised faithful transactions, took him to Govindrāv, and swore by the bel bhandār. He got hundis, and began negotiations through Haripant Phadke and showed that the financial arrangement was reliable. Nāna said that "the Marāthās (by caste) are dishonest and selfish. The estate has relapsed to Sarkār but I have to return it for your sake. You are the keeper and administrator thereof." After due assurances, it was decided that (Govindrāv) should be offered the office, and the dress was given in the fair half of the month of Bhādrapad. For two years he was exempted from service and the Peshvās were to help him in establishing his control. The expenses of his help should be repaid within specified time. A document to this effect was drawn up and then was the dress given. Govindrāv left for Baroda. As soon as Mānāji died, Kānhoji Gāikavād undertook the management and remained at Baroda.

DOCUMENT No. 53.

To

From

Rāvji Appāji.

Dated 18th Moon Mohoram (?)

(After compliments.) I am well at Poona and received the letters you sent addressed to Sāvant and Raghoji Patel. I sent Chilo Patel and two peons with a letter to the Chhatrapati Mahārāja before yours (under reply) reached me. They must have reached now. After the receipt of your letter Nārāyan Jāsud and one Kānada peon have been despatched on Saturday with letters to Shrimant Mahārāja and Rājeshri Lingapa. They also must have reached, and handed over the letters to Lingapa. He must have written the reply he may have received. If not, please write.

At present Shrimant Daulatrāv Sinde has written a letter to the Mahārāja about me. I also have written a letter to the Mahārāja. Both the letters have been placed in one envelope and (I have) added a letter to Lingapa. That has been enclosed in the envelope of the letter addressed to you. As soon as you get that letter and the one addressed to the Mahārāja, go to Sātara with Raghoji Patel, see Lingapa, give him his letter, and submit the one addressed to the Mahārāja through him. Repeat the request you communicated to me. "I have no money, and I am neither a thief nor an ungrateful man. And yet, Mahārāja may take all that I possess. But His Highness will see who suffers in reputation. (I have) rendered humble services for forty years. To what extent I have suffered may be considered. Now the self-illuminating sun has risen in the shape of Your Highness. It should destroy the darkness of my poverty." That is left aside and instead (of it) Mahārāja demands money from me! But in his house there is no balance standing against me. His Highness is by nature extravagant and luxurious and is therefore in debt to the extent of lākhs of Rupees. That is true. I will swear as to its truth by any sacred thing (Mahārāja names). Submit a clear request like this.

Andoba! Mahārāja has, under displeasure, harassed all people. May that please him. He is the father and mother (of us all). Tell Lingapa that I will not pay a single rupee as fine. Let him do what he thinks just and fair. Bāpu Bhatt has been detained because he has incurred some debt at Wāi and wants more money for the house. Money has not yet been obtained. Within a day or two I shall try to get one or two thousand and despatch the sum to him. Sāvant and Raghoji Patel belong to the Shiledār's family. I keep you informed of it.

Andoba Anna! You write as if you are afraid. But I cannot help it. Bāpu Bhatt will explain matters. What more to write? Be kind is my request.

Despatched on the 20th of Mohoram.

Chronicle.

Under Shrimant Chhatrapati Shivāji Mahārāj, was employed Prayāg Anant Phanse resident of Panvel. He was wise, clever, a good writer and a good speaker. He was at the head of the Konkanes and Māvals. The Mahārāja was pleased to appoint him Subhedār of forts Satara and Parali (Shak 1607).

Prayāg Bāva was given the command of the fort of Satara and installed as the head of the Gadakaris (guards of the fort). Prayāgji Bāva was present at four or five battles fought against the Moghals. He was successful.

He married twice. The elder wife had four sons. Of these Antāji Prayāg was the eldest. The second wife had also four sons. Their names will be given in due course. Antāji Prayāg had four sons. The eldest was Jyoti Anant, the second was Laxman Anant, the third Kāshirāv Anant and the fourth Mahipatrāv. Jyoti Anant had four sons. The eldest was Gangādhār Jyoti, the second, Chimmāji Jyoti, the third, Bhāskar Jyoti alias Rāvji Appāji, the fourth was Rakhmāji Jyoti alias Bābāji Appāji.

In Shak 1608 Emperor Aurangzeb came from Delhi. He captured Sambhāji Mahārāja. Everything was in confusion. Rājārām Sāheb was thinking of going to Chandi. At this time the Manglāi bastion of the fort was blown up by the Emperor after placing explosives under its foundation. The siege was in full force. The bastion was blown up. It rose like a kite to about 150 or 200 feet. Soldiers guarding the bastion were thrown out by the force and killed on the spot. Some were wounded. The Subhedār was also blown up and lay buried in the debris. But he was not much hurt. The siege lasted until the evening. Tired soldiers returned to their quarters. At night, Kārkuns and soldiers were despatched with torches to investigate the loss. On the third morning a portion of the dress of the Subhedār attracted attention. On hallooing, it was found that he was still alive. He was taken out (by the grace of God). Mahārāja was pleased to find him alive. He was asked to name a reward. He said that villages may be granted him in the vicinity of the temple he had built. Mauje Kalambe was granted as a perpetual gift. Some land was also granted at Chinchner-Dehegāv. They are still in the enjoyment of the family. Prayāgji acquired a great reputation in this manner. After some years Nānāsāheb Peshvā began administering the State. He was succeeded by Mādhavrāv Ballāl. With him there were Sakhārām Bāpu Bokil and Bāburāv Phadnis. During that time Bhāskar Jyoti alias Rāvji Appāji was entrusted with the duty of negotiations, as he was liked by all and was acquainted with many raises and ryots. Whenever any disputed cases came before the Sarkār, Rāvba was selected for the reconciliation of the disputants as he was a straightforward and honest man. Every year he had to deal with five or six such complicated cases. After due enquiry Rāvba used to report the case to the Sarkār and carry out the orders (of the Sarkār) and recover fines. He thus added a few rupees to the income of the State. Officers were pleased with him. In this manner Rāvba became a favourite of the Darbār.

Men who were employed to negotiate on behalf of Govindrāv Gāikavād could not succeed; and although he was the senior, he could not get the orders and dress of the office (of Gāikavād) because Mānājirāv, Fattasing Rāv and Sayāji Bāba had not offered substantial Nazars and tribute. There was no decision and they had no intelligent and influential agent at the Darbār. Their father Damāji Rāv Gāikavād had died at Pattan. At that time, Govindrāv Bāba was on duty at Poona. When he heard of it, he offered the usual Nazar to the Sarkār, received the dress, recovered the Nazars, and rasads, due from the Māmledārs of his state, paid 20,00,000 (twenty lākhs of rupees) into the state treasury. He took his cavalry and army, established his power by despatching Māmledārs in accordance with the custom. He captured Fort Songad. Before he could proceed, Fattasing Bāba came to Poona and opened negotiations through Gopāl Nāik Tāmbekar and got two sanads, one in his own name, and another in Govindrāv's name. One of them was for the office of the Senākhāskhel, and the other for Samasher Bahādur. It was decided that the acceptance of the duty of each section be left to their choice. Govindrāv Bāba accepted the Samshersardārship. The Sena khās-khelship was given to Fattasing. He accepted it and left for Gujerat. Amin Sāheb's(?) father Hamid Miyya was there (?) with his army. Govindrāv Bāba's army came to that place (?) from Songad. They fought a battle. In that battle Chimnāji Jyoti of Kalambe was killed. Rāvba Bāba went there and performed his obsequies. Fattesing arrived there with power to administer the state. Govindrāv's army was sent back.

After this, Govindrāv Bāva used to see the Shrimant (Peshva), with Mahādji Sinde and Māloji Rāje Ghorpade, and tell them that as Fattesing Bāva was entrusted with the internal administration of the state, Govindrāv Bāba was obliged to remain at Pocna on (Military) duty. Fattesing Rāv had been making no arrangement for his expenses and the Mānledārs he (Govindrāv) had deputed to the Mahāl to recover the Nazar paid by him, had been sent back (by Fattesing). How was he to maintain himself? (The Peshva) said "The district belonged to (troublesome) Mewāsis, they will pay later on. If he (Fattesing) takes time, what is the use of quarrelling? That is not proper." He (Peshva) told Gopāl Nāik to refund the amount (of the Nazar) paid (by Govindrāv) and get the orders back. The Shrimant (Peshva) went to Karnatak in Samvat 1828. Govindrāv accompanied him, and so did Dādāsāheb Peshvā. They invaded the territory of the Moghal, and Govindrāv proved useful with his army of 10,000 strong. Dādāsāheb therefore found him a brave man and was favourably impressed. Dādāsāheb was imprisoned by Rāvsāheb (Mādhavrāv) Peshvā. In Shak 1694, Samvat 1828 Rāvsāheb died. Nārāyanrāv became Peshvā. Dādāsāheb went out on an expedition against the Moghals. He conquered a territory yielding 20 lāks a year. Then Nārāyanrāv got into trouble. That history about Sumersing Gārđi has already been recorded in the chronicle about the Peshvās. Then Dādāsāheb went to Dhar. At that place Shrimant Bājirāv was born with the face towards the earth ! Then Govindrāv went to Gujerāt with Patel Bāva, Sinde. The Māmledārs returned to Gujerat with the army. They came back and sat dharna on Khando Āvaji to represent Gabāji and the Kārbhāri. They would not allow him to leave his place. When he went to the tent, no one was allowed to enter it or to come out of it. At that time Rāvji Appāji went to enquire after his health, but there was a disturbance and he could not see him (Khando). He (Rāvji) enquired and escaping the notice of the guard entered the tent. He asked Govindrāv “What would happen if the news of this disturbance about debt reaches the Shrimant ?” After protesting in this manner in several ways, he came out (of the tent) and threatened the agents of the creditors and said “What will you get by enforcing such a dunning ? When the master is installed on his gādi, arrangements will be made for the payment.” He explained matters in different ways. In this manner Rāvba saved Govindrāv from a critical position involving death. Govindrāv (Gāikavād) felt much indebted and always remembered it.

Govindrāv Gāikavād tried through Pātil Bāva and the Darbāris to get charge of Gujerāt. Mādhavrāv Peshvā was applied to, but he asserted that he would not change what he had once said. On that, Govindrāv went to Hindustan with Pātil Bāva (Sinde). At that time Khando Āvaji requested Rāvba to help him with money and assured him that he (Govindrāv) would not succeed in raising a loan without his (Rāvba’s) help. Rāvba said “On what grounds shall I stand security for him ?” Khando Āvaji said “Sardār Govindrāv is your master because your brother Chimmāji Jyoti is his servant. You are therefore his servant in a way. And, besides, he is your friend. You have helped him several times, now he is helpless as regards the loan. This cannot be managed without you." Rāvba replied "I am not a monied man. I am doing my best. You know it. Nobody would work without money. Why do you try me in this way?" Then Tāmbekar added "I have three or four times opened the subject with the Nāik. He consented if a security be offered. He asked us to find out a security. On this it was settled that Bhide should advance Rupees fifty thousand to one lākh. The document was tendered and the amount received. It was promised that the amount would be refunded on his (Govindrāv's) going to Gujerāt and Bhide added that Rāvba should accompany him (Govindrāv) to Gujerāt and remit the amount as stipulated. The question of appointing Khandopant was under consideration, but this was a better arrangement as it emanated from Bhide. Pant was glad. Bābāsāheb was informed of these facts and told how the matter was settled. After that, hearing that Dādāsāheb was coming (to Poona) with the help of the English, Sinde and Haripant went out to meet them. They met near Navasari on the banks of the Narbada. Dādāsāheb went to Surat as soon as the battle began. In obedience to orders from Calcutta a European army of four regiments went to Talegāv through Borghāt. There was a battle. The chief commandant was Istur Phākda. He was killed. The English army returned to Bombay. Eight villages out of the Salsette group were given away to Dādāsāheb and peace was concluded. The villages were handed over to Dādāsāheb. They (the army?) were kept at Koregāv.

Rāvji Appāji was a favourite of the Shrimant (Peshvā) and of the Kārbhāris. He was kindly treated, was given job-work. He was thus enabled to earn his livelihood. Rāvba on the other hand worked very scrupulously, and maintained the supremacy of the Peshvās. At this time Chimnāji Jyoti came there with Govindrāv Gāikavād. After receiving the dress of honour of the Sardārship, he recovered money—the amount recorded by the Māmlēdārs as “District charges.” To establish his reign he sent portions of his army with the Māmlēdārs. When he (Rāvba) prepared to go to Gujerāt, he was asked (by Chimnāji) “Why are you going? We shall live in peace with half the bread left to us by our ancestors.” Govindrāv told him “This we should consider as our family work. You and I are not separate. Do not be anxious. I am yours in all respects. Let him go.” At such a homely request, he consented. He (Rāvba) was sent. Fattesingrāv then came (to Poona) and got his “Mulki Command.” A battle took place near Songad and a few men were killed. Chimnāji Jyoti was also killed, on the battlefield. When Rāvba heard of this he was very sorry. Govindrāv tried to console him in many ways. When Rāvba returned to Gujerāt after working with Sinde and Dādāsāheb, and gaining their good opinion, Govindrāv went forward to receive him and informed him of what had happened. On moving the Sāheb at Surat through Dādāsāheb, permission was received to invade Baroda. The Sāheb was to take Princess Vārābāi the daughter of Fattesingrāv as a hostage and to establish order at Baroda. But Sinde and Holkar marched with their artillery against Dādāsāheb. That produced great disturbance and the Sāheb took hostages. Fattesing paid some money and formed alliance with the English. It was stipulated that they (the English) should not side with Govindrāv. After that, Haripant was entertained. Govindrāv went to Poona. Even Pātil Bāva found it difficult to negotiate matters with Mādhavrāv Nārāyan the Peshvā and Nāna and Haripant the Kārbhāris. Rāvba had free access to the Darbār. Govindrāv therefore secured his friendship and through him swore alliance with Pātil Bāva. Keeping that in mind, he used to repeat the assurance but Rāvba had to work in conformity with the wishes of the Darbār. He therefore pulled on well. Nilkanthrāv Pāge (Commandant of the Cavalry) Māloji Ghorpade and Mānāji Fākde interested themselves (in this case) and spoke to the Peshvā. On the other hand, the Pātil of Deccan-Hyderabad spoke on behalf of Govindrāv. He was friendly with the Sāheb-lok. He therefore used to tell them the purport. Govindrāv spoke to Nāna and Haripant about this matter many a time. He was told that Rāvba should not trouble them on this subject, because on account of his partisanship of Dādāsāheb, there was some prejudice against him. That is why no definite reply was given (by the Peshvā). He should understand this and keep quiet. After that, Fattesingrāv died in Suru San tissa Samanin. Mānāji became the chief. From that moment Rāvba again commenced speaking to Nāna on this matter. Nāna was very kind to Rāvba. He therefore did not give an unfavourable decision, but only said "Why are you anxious? You will get some good appointment from the Sarkār." This state continued for a long time. At last Rāvba said that Govindrāv was living at Poona for a long time at daily expense. "My brother died fighting for him. On that account he (Govindrāv) came to me. He has been eating and fasting on alternate days. When he comes to my house, there is no alternative but that of relieving him. Whenever he is annoyed by his creditors, he sends for me and gets me entangled in the affair, and the creditors kindly listen to me and go back. On this account I am much involved. It is hoped that the Sarkār will make him the master of Gujerāt to relieve me from my promise. If I (Rāvba) am entrusted with Sarkār-service, I shall take Govindrāv (Gāikavād) to Baroda, and will arrange for the repayment of the balance due from him. I will show that I can render valuable services. But do confer on him this favour," Rāvba further learnt that the news of the demise of Mānāji had reached that Sarkār. At this time Govind Vishvanāth wrote to Nāna that "the Sardārship (of Gujerat) has no master and Sarkār has to recover heavy dues. It may therefore be resumed and handed over to him for administration. I shall pay such and such amount as Nazar." But before that, Nāro Shripati had submitted a proposal on behalf of Mānāji Rāv. When the agent (of Nāro Shripati) was going to a middle-man with hundis, a friend of Rāvba read them. Rāvba asked him to show him these papers and ascertained that they referred to the dress announcing the appointment. He told them to accompany him. He took them to Govindrāv and (in his presence) explained the day of the demise of Mānāji. He assured them of the fact, took them thence to Haripant Tātia and proposed that Govindrāv be (now) offered the dress. Tātia replied, "Yes, you have been speaking about this proposal for a long time. It is true. I remember it, but how to succeed without money? What to do for that? This is the opportunity. Mānāji is dead. You can now speak on the subject." He (Rāvba) promised to pay in proportion, to the best of his power and added that if he (Tātia) interests himself there was hope of success. "You will (I hope) interest yourself." Tātia replied "When was I not interested? You have been arranging for (the money) ever since Fattasing's death. When proposals about Mānāji were opened, he was told (to produce cash). He died before he could do so. Your proposal is still under consideration." Rāvba replied "If you tell me to-day that you will interest yourself and obtain the desired decision, I will arrange for the payment. I will not leave your house until I do so on the spot." Tātia replied "In, what way will you arrange for the cash?" Rāvba replied "If you mention a modest sum I can pay at this moment and if you wish to refuse there is no help." Then Tātia replied, "Pay one year's income as a nazar in addition to the Darbār Kharch (payments to Darbār officers). Tell me how you propose repaying the balance." Rāvba replied, "Settle the amount of the year's income, and the payments to the Darbāris, and then I will speak about the balance. Do what you think proper, in consideration of the loss suffered during the last twenty years. We have no support except yourself." He replied "Rāvba! You are mine and I am yours, but the debt is due to the Sarkār, unless it is paid how am I to speak to the Sarkār? Unless therefore the 'personal' terms with Tātia were settled and the Darbār's expenses are fixed in consultation with Nāna he (Tātia) would not speak. He was shown a bill of exchange for sixty lākhs of rupees. He was asked to come back in the evening to accompany him to Nāna's house to settle that day all final details. Then he (Rāvba) was introduced to Gopālji Gundo the Khijamatgār (A.D.C.) of Nāna. He informed Nāna. Nāna replied, "Why does Rāvba work in such matters? Sarkār wishes to employ him as Nyā-yādhis (Chief Justice). What is the surety of the promises of the Marāthas by caste (meaning the Gāikavād's tribe). He trusts them and gets himself involved. This is not good." On this Gopālji Gundo said "Rāvji Appāji has been pulling on under your protection during these twenty years. He works in obedience to your advice. He never accepts any bribe in doing that work. It is not because his family people have been complaining (of want of support). They say "Why do you get yourself into trouble over Govindrāv's affairs. We shall live on our own income. If there were any additional income from outside, there would have been no objection. That you do not get and waste your time." Such is the way in which his brothers speak to him. I heard it. All that Rāvba could earn and get on credit has been devoted to Govindrāv. He will not give up that 'monomania,' all the days of his life until he is weaned from that affair, that is, his connection with Govindrāv as contracted in some preceding birth. He must have owed him (Govindrāv) some heavy debt in a former birth. As somebody will have to be deputed to the Gāikavād to arrange for the recovery of the debt due, he (Rāvba) may be told off to do that duty—after ascertaining how he arranges for the securities of the repayment. If he does not do so satisfactorily he may not be employed." Nāna heard all this and remained silent.

Then about 8 o'clock at night Haripant Tātia took Rāvba with him and went to Nāna's house. He opened the subject. He said, "Rāvba waited so long, because he did not want to create trouble while matters were running smooth, and Fattesing and Mānāji were working on the spot. They were well informed, they had the land in their possession. There was no profit to the Government if they were made to spend money in establishing order. Now they are both dead and have left no heirs. Govindrāv has a son there (in Gujerat) and therefore our state should be handed over to us. The dress of honour of the Sardārship may now be kindly presented again and we may be sent there on behalf of the Sarkār." After this Nāna discussed one or two more points regarding the proposal to resume and to hold the land direct. Tātia said "that it would be difficult to resume the state. That was not a good proposal. We must arrange for some scheme in which the state can be handed over to Govindrāv."

Nāna replied, "No services were rendered to the state, although such a service formed the condition, and the fixed amount of ransom has not been paid. There is still standing a heavy balance. Govindrāv will not be able to bear the weight of these responsibilities and no appointment can be made until the balance is paid. Then tell me in what way do you propose to proceed? Your proposals will then receive consideration." Tātia asked, "To whom was the first payment about the dress made? To Govindrāv or to Fattesing? Look at the accounts, strike a balance and we shall submit proposals for its settlement." Account papers were obtained from the Guruji. On examining them it was found that there was a heavy balance. Then Haripant Tātia said, "We cannot settle the whole affair to-day. Let the work be done departmentally. (I think) We should accept one year's income as Nazar and depute Huzrās to recover the balance." A memo. was drawn up in accordance. Haripant undertook to guarantee the payment of instalments and it was settled that the dress of honour announcing the appointment be given the next day. They were working with this scheme until midnight. Then they returned under the protection of the guard, who controlled traffic at night in conformity with the regulations of the "Curfew" Bell-like gun.

The dress was to be given the next day, but 14 Mahāls of the 28 constituting the Surat province were handed over to the Nabāb. Out of the remaining 14, seven were to be resumed by the Peshvās and only seven to be handed over to the Gāikavād. When it was given out that the 7 Mahāls were to be resumed, Rāvba could not undertake to convey the news, because he was the Minister-elect and he would suffer in the estimation of his chief. When therefore Mānāji Gāikavād was alive one Svaruprām Munshi was employed as a spy to watch and report what Govindrāv was doing. He was now employed at the Bet under Mallet Sāheb. After Mānāji's demise he lived with Govindrāv as a flatterer. He said, that there existed an agreement in which the British undertook to help the Gāikavād if the Peshvā or any other power interfered with his dominion. He asserted that he knew it for certain. He suggested that if this matter were referred to Mallet Sāheb, the Kārbhāris (of Poona) would not have to say anything. He went to Mallet Sāheb and informed him that "after deciding that Govindrāv be appointed Gāikavād, the (Peshvā) now says that he will be given the requisite dress only if he hand over Navsari Mahāls. You (Mallet Sāheb) have agreed to help if there be any dispute about land. There is a Bahādari (guarantee) to that effect and suggested that he should say "There is nothing to be said if it is really handed over willingly. If it be resumed forcibly that will not do."

(He added) "You say that, and he (Govindrāv) will be given the dress. Unless you speak in an assertive tone, this thing will not be done." On hearing this he (Mr. Mallet) consented, went to the Peshvā and asked "Has the question of the Gāikavād of Gujerat been settled or not?" Nāna asked him in return "Why do you put such a question?" He replied "There is an agreement between us (the British) and the Gāikavād and we have undertaken to help him. That we shall not allow any power to interfere with his territory." He (Mr. Mallet) then added "that the question be settled and he be allowed to go. This was a friendly request."

On account of this speech, the proposal of resuming Navasari was dropped. Payment to Haripant (Phadke) was settled through Krishnambhat Patvardhan, his family priests. Nāna's affair (payment) was settled by Tatia (Haripant Phadke) and he arranged for the ceremony of giving the dress in a Darbār. When Govindrāv started (in procession) to receive the dress, he was supplied with retainers by Nilkanthrāv Pāgé (Commandant). They consisted of horses duly caparisoned and adorned with gold and silver ornaments, camel sawārs and elephant cavalry. Māloji Rāje Ghorpade supplied mounted guards. About seven or eight hundred attendants were thus supplied. Govindrāv had two elephants of his own. With these and with his own horses, drum bearers and flags, Govindrāv was escorted to the wāda (Peshva's house) and was received by Nāna and Haripant. He was offered a seat near the gādi (masnad).

All those who were friendly to Govindrāv were speaking to the Sarkār. Seeing that he was in financial difficulty they urged that he should be helped. Among them Pātil Bāva was very earnest. He was an intimate friend of Haripant (Phadke). When therefore Haripant referred to Dādāsāheb's treason he (Sinde) replied that Govindrāv only spoke about the Sardārship. "He has done no harm to the Sarkār (and added) that he knew it well. For the sake of the 'belly' one may serve anybody." This was done at Rāvba's suggestion and Sinde spoke to Nāna accordingly. Nāna therefore said that he did not entertain any unfavourable opinion on that account. When they stopped speaking the Vakil of the Mongals said "Nimbālkar was asked to look into the question of the loss his master's territory had to suffer and when you have no Sardār in Gujerat, how is it that Govindrāv goes about styling himself a Rāja. Why does the Sarkār not take notice of that? He was told that at the time the treaty was framed it was proposed that the "Surat Aththāvisi" province should be handed over to the Sarkār. But from the sāheblok-side it was arranged that if anybody were to interfere with the treaty so arranged with Fattasing they would help him. A message was received from them (sāheblok) that "if any proposals were made in contravention of that treaty they would be forced to help him (the Gāikavād). There are written documents extant on the subject." At this reply Nāna felt constrained, and it was decided that Govindrāv be offered the appointment. He was thereafter given the dress of honour of the Sardārship.

When he offered the dress of the Divānship to Rāvba, Nāna said to Govindrāv that "Rāvji was a hereditary servant of the Sarkār. I transfer him to you because he worked hard for you with the Sarkār. Administer your state under his counsel. Repay the debt you owe to the Sarkār. Sarkār-huzras will be told off to do that work." The dress was ceremoniously given after such remarks. After receipt of the dress Govindrāv returned home and distributed alms among Brahmans and fed them with sweets. The usual reception was held and clothes presented as usual. When it was known that Govindrāv received the khillāt for Baroda, many people came to see him. Some were Govindrāv's friends and some were Rāvba's friends or friends' friends. Many wanted to go to Baroda and many were the recommendations received. Direct refusal would have produced discontent and it was not advisable to give an opportunity to people to grumble—while living in the capital. Everyone was therefore courteously told that "he (Govindrāv) has suffered great loss during the recent interval. All know it well. After reaching Baroda and establishing himself, he would consider the claims of every applicant. It was not possible to arrange for their departure, because there was no cash in hand." Those therefore who wanted to go forthwith were asked to finance their own expenses and told that they should not reopen the question until he (Govindrāv) reached his capital. After everything was settled, arrangement was to be made in accordance with demand for men and the income of the state. In this manner Rāvba managed the affair and informed Bābāsāheb (Govindrāv) of what he did. Govindrāv remarked that the whole state was at Rāvba's disposal. "I will eat only what you would give me. You need not take my permission to manage these affairs. Still in due deference as a servant, he kept him (Govindrāv) daily informed of what he was doing. They started with Mādhavrāv Gopāl Karandikar, Krishnarāv Bhat Patvardhan, Nawāb Mīr Kamāluddin, Māloji Rāje Ghorpade's mistress, Mohan Rāni, and her son, including seven or eight officers entitled to palanquins. There were besides many respectable Brahmans Sāwkārs, Bhāts, Bhikshuks, Marāthas (by caste) and Prabhus—among the latter figured Balvantrāv Kāshi Phanse, Vithal Yashvant Potnis, Sadāshiv Laxman, Chitnis Govindrāv, Bhāi 'Jevlia,' Hari Rāv, Mukund Jagoba Dāda, Nilkanthrāv Pāgō's nephew his brother Bhikoba. There were besides many Marātha shiledārs and Konknes.

When Govindrāv parted from Pātil Bāva, Khando Āvji died on the way. Govindrāv was very sorry. He embraced Rāvba and said "Up to this time you and Khandopant were working conjointly for me. But now I have no faithful adherent except yourself. You are my sole support, mother, sister, father, brother, kith and kin. I will submit even if you cut my throat. I and my descendants will never neglect you and your descendants. I swear (to that effect) by my father, mother and family gods."

There are many letters on record to the same effect. While Pātil Bāva was with them, Rāvba managed to gain his good opinion, informed him of Bābāsāheb's difficulties and got permission to leave him. He carried on the daily expenses and refunded some part of the amount due to Bhide.

Rāvba then went to Poona. Govindrāv went to Baroda and raised a siege, Shake 1693.

After that Dādāsāheb (Raghunāthraṅ Peshva) came from Dhar. He met (Govindrāṅ) at Harnai near Baroda. Govindrāṅ went (in advance) to see him. Then came the British regiments and Dādāsāheb returned to Surat.

On reaching Barod, Govindrāṅ found that there was an excess of Arabs in the army. Nothing could be done without them. They ill-treated many people. If a man accidentally stumbled (on any of the Arabs) he was instantly killed. There was no remedy, no complaint and no appeal! Holkor's army and Sinda's army looted (parts of the territory). There was such an anarchy in the state. The troubles caused by the chief of Bhuj (Kachch) and Nagar (Jāmnagar) interfered with the recovery of the revenue of Kathiavad. People were harassed. The Peshva had promised that if there was trouble in the Baroda territory he would settle the matter. He would send an army. Yet Rāvba was recalled to Poona by Rājirāṅ II, to arrange for the repayment of the old balance due. He informed (the Peshva) of the state of affairs at Baroda but was told that "when there was trouble in Poona itself how could the Gāikavād be assisted? You had better manage the state in the best way you yourself can." Receiving such orders, Rāvba went to Banal who had influence with the Sahebs. From there he got armies from Mir Kamāluddin and Nawāb sāheb, and Gopālraṅ and removed Malhārrāṅ from Kadi to Nadiad. He brought the province of Ahmedabad under control with the co-operation of the sāhebs.

Then the sāhebs took Cambay and made a treaty. It was found difficult to repay the debt because the Arabs had ruined the state. The sāhebs complained. They were told that "the Baroda state counted on the perpetual friendship of the Honourable Company. The Sena Khaskhel and his successors and your (English) successors will live in close friendship. What a gain will it be !”

Bābāji, Sitārāmji, Sakhāram Divānji and Gopālrāv were deputed to carry this message. Such was the friendship and such is now the state.

APPENDIX.

Govind Rāo Gāikarwād.

“ Govind Rāo Gaikwār was sent by his father Dummājee to support Rughonāth Rāo, against Māhdoo Rāo, in the rebellion of 1768. Shortly after its suppression Dummājee died leaving four sons, Syājee, Govind Rāo, Mānikjee and Futih Sing. The two last were the youngest and full brothers by the third wife. Syājee was the eldest son, but by Dummājee’s second wife. Govind Rāo was his second son, but by the first married wife. * * Govind Rāo was at Poona at the time of his father’s death, a ‘ prisoner at large ’ in consequence of having supported Rughonāth Rāo. His claim to the succession, and to his father’s rank of Sena Khās-kheyel, does not in the first instance appear to have been disputed. Upon his paying a fine of upwards of twenty-three lacks of rupees, for his late delinquency, a nuzur of twenty-one lacks, and other exactions amounting in all to upwards of fifty lacks and a half, and having also agreed to pay a tribute of seven lacks and seventy-nine thousand rupees annually, to keep three thousand horse constantly in the service at Poona, and four thousand when the Peishwa was at war, the title and possessions of his father were conferred upon Govind Rāo ” (Grant Duff.)

“ Govind Rāo presented a petition to the minister, praying to be acknowledged by the Peishwa as regent of the Gāekwār possessions. His claim was just, but Mānnājee Rāo, was by paying a Nuzur * * confirmed in his usurpation. Mahādājee Sindia, however, espoused the cause of Govind Rāo and procured a repeal of Mānnājee’s appointment, upon which Mānnājee applied to the Bombay Government, claiming its protection on the terms of the treaty conducted with General Goddard by Tulip Sing. As the treaty in question was superseded by that of Salbye, the English declined all interference on that ground, * * but they were induced to recommend, through Mr. Malet, that some friendly compromise should be accepted. * * Nāna Furnuwees concurred in this opinion, but Mahādājee Sindia and the partizans of Govind Rāo, objected to any compromise. The question was, however, at once set at rest by the death of Mānnājee about 1st August 1793. Still Govind Rāo found it difficult to obtain permission to quit the Peishwa's capital. The ministers, without any regard to the exorbitant exactions already imposed on himself and his family, obliged Govind Rāo to sign an agreement confirming the former stipulations, and ceding to the Peishwa the Gāekwar's share of the districts south of the Taptee, formerly included in the cessions to the Company in 1780 together with his proportion of the customs of Surat ; but there being no service performed by the Peishwa, towards the Gāekwar, beyond the mere confirmation of his rights as regent, the British Government objected to the cession as a dismemberment of the Baroda territory, contrary to the stipulations of the treaty of Salbye. The validity of this objection was immediately admitted by Nāna Furnuwees, the instrument of cession was restored, and Govind Rāo at last set out to assume his office, as undisputed regent at Baroda, on the 19th December, 1793."<sup>1</sup>

“ Khando Ballāl was present at the council of the principal people assembled at Raigad, and declared Rājā-Rām as the regent, after Sambhāji's death.

“ He took a very active part in protecting Rājārām during his flight to Ginjee in disguise. On one occasion the slight circumstance of having Rājārām’s feet washed by a servant at first attracted attention. The wary observation of Khando Ballāl discovered that there was a plan for arresting the whole party, and to disappoint the scheme, Khando Ballāl with the majority of the party remained cooking their victuals, while Rāja-Rām and some others went off and escaped. Khando Ballāl (Chitnis) and his companions were taken, as had been foreseen : they were examined, confined and beaten to extort confession but on their firmly persisting in a preconcerted story and denying all knowledge of any fugitives from Mahārāshtra, they were released, and finally joined Rājārām, who with others, had reached Ginjee in safety.”<sup>1</sup> Such was the fidelity of Khando Ballāl, that he was held in great esteem.

Prayāgji Prabhu.

“ The fort which occupies the summit of a very steep hill of moderate height, the defence consisting of a sheer scrap of over forty feet topped by a stone wall, was defended by Prayāgji Prabhu Havildār, who had been reared in the service of Shivāji. He vigorously opposed the Moghals and disputed every foot of ground as they pushed forward their advanced posts. As soon as they began to gain any part of the hill, he withdrew his troops into the fort and rolled huge stones from the rock above, which did great execution, and, until they threw up cover, were as destructive as artillery. In spite of Prayāgji’s efforts the blockade was completed ! ”<sup>2</sup>

“ Prayāgji, the Marātha commandant, was buried in the ruins caused by the first explosion close to a temple dedicated to the goddess Bhavāni, but was afterwards dug out alive. His escape was considered a lucky omen and under other circumstances might have done much to inspirit the garrison to prolong the defence.”<sup>1</sup>

Rāoji Appāji, Bābāji Appāji, Sitārām Rāoji, Vithalrāv Bābāji and Bhāskarrāv Vithal the descendants of Prayāgji were Ministers of Baroda. The present scion is Shrimat Dāda Sāheb alias Ramchandra Vithalrāv Phanse, Khāsgivāle, the hereditary Tālukdār of Vithalgad in Kāthiawad.

Rājārām Mahārāja.

“Ascends the throne, but some of the Marāthas, jealous of the right of the elder branch, do not admit that Rājārām ever sat on the throne. They say that he sat on the gādi, or cushion, merely as regent, holding the powers of the State in trust for his nephew Shāhu (Shāo) then a prisoner in the Moghul camp.”<sup>2</sup>

Rāvji Appāji.

(Spelt Rowjee Appajee in Grant Duff’s History.)

“He (the rebel Kānhojee Rāo) was deposed by a party headed by Rowjee Appājee, a Purvoe (Prabhu) who was the principal minister of the late Govind-Rāo. Rowjee the minister in power and Kanhojee (the deposed authority) made offers to the Bombay Government. Rowjee was supported by his brother Bābājee. Rowjee’s party was the strongest in Baroda. * * * The minister immediately proposed to the Bombay Government to subsidize five battalions. Major Alexander Walker, who was sent as the officer in command of the detachment, was instructed to settle the disturbance by amicable mediation, if possible; otherwise, he was to act with Bābājee in suppressing the rebellion of Mulhār Rāo. * * * Although Rowjee Appājee was anxious for power, and jealous of authority (of the State), he gladly solicited support when insurrections were to be suppressed, the Government to be strengthened, its expenses to be reduced, money to be raised, and debt to be reduced.”

“The ministry was chiefly composed of a set of Purvoes, (Prabhus) a cast (sic) frequently remarkable for great fidelity and bravery, and when poor, they are often frugal to parsimony, but it may be observed of the Purvoes (Prabhus) that wherever they attain power, and can command wealth they are lavish and improvident. The head of this ministry was Rowjee Appājee who died in July, 1803.”<sup>1</sup>

“Sukārām Bhugwunt Bhokeel, Koolkurnee of Hewra, and the descendant of Puntōjee Gopināth, who betrayed Afzool Khan into the hands of Sivājee, was the principal minister at the period when the British Government first took an active part in the politics of the Poona Darbār, and is best known by his familiar name Sakārām Bāppoo.”

“It is necessary to state that Sukārām Bāppoo was originally concerned in Rāgoba’s conspiracy against the liberty, though not the life, of Nārāin-Rāo. After the murder, as it was deemed by the ministers generally, a measure of prudence to affect a disbelief of Rugonath’s participation, of course Sukārām Bāppoo had stronger reasons than any of them, for professing that opinion.”

“But Sukārām’s death scene was not closed in Pertabgurh, the cautious jealousy of Nāna Furnuwees removed him secretly from one place to another to prevent rescue or insurrection, and once great Sukārām Bāppoo perished miserably in Rāigurh.”<sup>2</sup>

“ His friend (Raghunāth-rāv Peshva’s) Sakhārām Hari (Sukārām Hurry) who fought by his side, enabled him to defend himself until rescued by his nephew.”<sup>1</sup>

(2) “ A body of Arabs, whom he had lately entertained, refused to fight without pay, Mānājee Phākray and Sakhārām Hari, two of his best officers, were wounded in the commencement.”<sup>2</sup>

(3) “ The unshaken constancy of Sakhārām Hari to his master Rāghoba deserved a better fate. He was chained in irons so heavy that, although a very powerful man, he could scarcely lift them; his food and water were insufficient to allay his hunger or to quench his thirst; but he survived fourteen months; and when so emaciated that he could not rise,— “ My strength is gone and my life is going,” said the dying enthusiast, “ but when voice and breath fail, my flesh and bones shall still shout Raghunāth-Rāv! Raghunāth-Rāv!”

“ Sakhārām Hari was a Prabhu and is not a singular instance of the unshaken fidelity of that class in the history of Mahārāshtra.”<sup>3</sup>

The fort of Satara occupies the summit of a hill of moderate height, but very steep; its defences consist of a scrap of upwards of forty feet in perpendicular black rock, on the top of which there is a stone wall. It was defended by Pryāgjee Purvoo (Prayāgji Prabhu), Havildār, who had been reared in the service of Shivājee. He vigorously opposed the Moghuls and disputed every foot of ground as they pushed forward their advanced posts. As soon as they began to gain any part of the hill, he withdrew his troops into the fort, and rolled down huge stones from the rock above, which did great execution, and until they could throw up cover, were as destructive as artillery. The blockade, however, was complete, no communication could be held with the country, and as the small stock of grain in the garrison was soon exhausted, the besieged must have been compelled to surrender; * * * The divisions on the west and south faces erected batteries, but a grand attack was directed against the North-East angle which assumes nearly the shape of a tower and is one of the strongest points, the rock being forty-two feet high, and the bastion, now on the top of it, consists of twenty-five feet of masonry, making a total height of sixty-seven feet. Turbeeut Khān undertook to mine this angle and at the end of four months and a half had completed two mines. So confident were the Moghuls of success that the storming party was ready formed but concealed, as much as possible, under the brow of the hill from the view of the garrison. Aurungzebe was invited to view the spectacle, and a stratagem was formed to draw all the garrison towards the bastion, by the Emperor's moving off from that side in grand procession, so that when the match was ready to be applied, hundreds of Mahrāttās, attracted by his splendid retinue, crowded to the rampart, among others Prayāgjee the commandant. The first mine was fired, it burst several fissures in the rock, and occasioned so violent a concussion, that a great part of the masonry was thrown inwards, and crushed many of the garrison in its ruins. The storming party, in their eagerness, advanced nearer, the match was applied to the train of the second and larger mine, but being improperly constructed, it burst outwards with a dreadful explosion and upwards of two thousand of the Moghuls are said to have been destroyed on the spot. Prayāgji, the Mahrātta commandant, wa.

buried in the ruins by the first explosion, close to a temple dedicated to the goddess Bhowānee, but was afterwards dug out alive. His escape was considered a happy omen and under other circumstances might have been of much consequence in animating the Hindu garrison to prolong the defence. * * Satara surrendered about the middle of April, 1700.”<sup>1</sup>

“The result left Sindia all-powerful in Hindoostan, but he was conscious of his unpopularity in the Deccan, and strove to overcome it. With this view he had, on his arrival at Poona, espoused the cause of Govind Rāo Gāekwār in a manner which will be hereafter explained.”<sup>2</sup>

“Having previously adopted his nephew Seetārām Rowjee as his son, he was, with the consent of the resident, appointed successor (to Rowji Appāji).”<sup>3</sup>
